The Other Legend

Generations pass down the valley but the story of Alfarata has become the permanent heritage of our people. A dark tale, but noble withal, of the winsome, wavy-tressed Indian maiden. Unfortunate indeed are those who do not know the story of the beautiful Alfarata, nor of the forest home, of the white lover, nor of her proud father, the mighty Chief Black Cloud.

But always for those who do know, the tale has held the glorification of the Indian girl almost to the exclusion of the white lover. But he it was, who came from the rising of the sun, up the great uncharted river, to win her in her own native wilderness, to flee with her from her father's wigwam, and to share with her the swift death of Black Cloud's piercing arrow. Who was he? Whence came he? And whither lay their flight?

To begin then. Along with other peoples from across the great sea, the Dutch established posts along our eastern seaboard. Perhaps as a group their phlegmatic temperament forbade inland exploration. But there are among every people dauntless men who see beyond them the beckoning hand of the unknown, who feel within their breasts the urge to go adventuring. It might have been one of these who first wound his long trail up the valley of the uncharted river whose coursing waters swept past him to the sea. It might have been one of these who entered one evening into the life of Alfarata as the dusky daughter of Black Cloud held her birch-bark craft against the persuasively tugging current of the river. He won her.

And he shared her death, too; but he, nevertheless, was the first ambassador of the civilization that today pulses throughout the length of the valley—a civilization whose messages flash among the winds and whose iron monsters race after the sunset or thunder into the dawn with the swiftness of the arrow and the tirelessness of the eagle.

They had travelled a long day's journey down the blue waters of the Juniata. They were whispering words of love before their fragrant campfire when suddenly the cry of Black Cloud—and in it all the pent-up rage of a proud savage and a wronged father, rang through the stillness.

Swiftly his feathered shaft sped toward the hearts of the lovers.

What did they see in that moment between the flash of the arrow and the passing of life? Doubtless Alfarata saw again the happy days of her childhood, doubtless she heard again her father's decree "Alfarata must marry my bravest warrior, none other".

And he—he saw the mills of old Holland creaking in the wind. The flood was very near now. He saw again those long miles up the winding river and Alfarata as she held her canoe against the current. He clasped his Indian sweetheart closer. The firelight flickered out before the rush of the waters. The impenetrable darkness of death dulled into insignificance the somber shadows of night.

—C. R. FLORY.

President's Message

There is a small college in the heart of the mountains, on the banks of the historic Blue Juniata River that is very dear to many. All the glory and beauty of the environment has gone into the spirits of her children.

Here too, they have been taught the meanings of this environment and, with that, the meanings of the great world of knowledge upon which civilization so largely rests and upon which all fine leadership is predicated. Sound learning is essential to great living and Juniata wants her son and daughters to live large, useful lives. The joy of mental conquests has thrilled thousands in her walls. The joy of a glorious environment has put fibre and purpose in their lives.

Here also, they have had social contacts of deep and enduring values. The friendships of a small college are very precious, very helpful, very lasting. Like the glory of the mountains and the beauty of the river those friends add a touch to life that lingers, lasts, and mounts with years. Let us thank God for our Juniata-found friends.

Here, moreover, they have been living in a Christian community where gentle but persuasive ministries have touched the soul and enlarged their lives. The ideals of right living both for now and forever have been set up. Here the name of the Faithful Witness, the Prince of Rulers of the World, the Son of the Most High, has been engraved upon their hearts. Thus life has been immeasurably enriched, its purpose defined, its outgoings guided by Him of whom it may truly be said, as it was said by the Knights of Arthur,

*"We never saw his like
There lives no greater leader."*

To this four-fold effulgence Juniata invites you and welcomes you.

Mrs. Brumbaugh

FROM long experience we understand why the sun sinks below the Western hill-tops after the day is done. Likewise, we see the necessity of the decay and death of the flowers ere come the chilling blasts of grim winter. But when darkness falls between morning and noon—when the flower withers while yet in its freshness and fragrant bloom—we marvel for a reason. In our tearful ignorance, we cannot find a satisfactory answer.

When mortals have lived the allotted span and in the evening sink to sleep in the silence of a venerable grave we understand that the relentless hand of time has fairly and naturally claimed its own. Our sorrow is assuaged because we are prepared for the inevitable. But when we see a young life whose heart-beats thrill with the joy of living, dashed upon the breakers ere the noon time of life has been reached, we stand shocked and appalled. Such was the passing from us of the lovely, young Christian, and unselfish spirit of our fellow student—Emogene Hanawalt.

*"The lights go out, the sun gives up its shining,
And the world is lost in darkness for awhile.
And foolish hearts give way to sad repining
As if they ne'er again could smile.
Why murmur thus, the needful lesson scorning?
O read the teacher and his word aright!
The world would have no greeting for the morning
Were it not for the darkness of the night."*

"Gene's" life was a glorious success. While its full and complete realization failed here, yet, in our hearts, we know that it will be full-rounded and complete 'midst the glories on the Eternal Shore. She had built that young life on enduring and beautiful friendships; on a rock-ribbed and absolute trust in the goodness and mercy of Almighty God. A life so ordered leads as straight to Heaven's brightest gate as the path of a sunbeam leads to the bosom of a flower.

HENRY R. GIBBEL

N the passing of Henry R. Gibbel, Juniata lost more than the President of the Board of Trustees of the College. She lost a sympathetic and generous friend: one who devoted much of his interest and time to Juniata, one who never failed to appreciate the changes which youth demands.

The most note-worthy quality of Henry Gibbel was his interest in so many activities of life. Supreme in his life was his Christian faith. He united with the Church of the Brethren and was called to the ministry in 1914. In the realm of his business he was also honored. A few weeks before his death he was elected president of the National Association of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

Henry R. Gibbel was graduated from Juniata in 1888. He often spoke of the good things that had come to him through the college, and in turn he gave full measure of service to it as a trustee and lastly as president of the Board of Trustees. His counsel was prized because of his clear discernment, good sense, and direct fairness, tempered by goodwill. He was an unusually well balanced man, and the contributions of his life and labors to Juniata form a noble heritage.

The class of 1929 dedicates this page of the Alfarata to the memory of Henry R. Gibbel.

GERTRUDE BROWN

GERTRUDE BROWN was the outstanding woman of Juniata her Senior year, not only because of her charming personality but also because of her scholastic ability and interest in college activities.

As president of the Woman's Student Council she used her authority with a wisdom which won the respect of all. Active in campus organizations, "G" devoted most of her talent to literary attainments, contributing to the Juniatian, the Alfarata, and debate. She gave ample time to extra-curricular activities and likewise to purely scholastic pursuits, graduating "magna cum laude".

Gertrude Brown has those qualities which make the ideal college woman. She was a good sport, a capable leader, a true scholar and a loyal friend. To her was granted Juniata's highest honor—the Hutchinson prize, in recognition of her service to her Alma Mater.

WALTER GROVE is a true son of Juniata. Seven years spent on her campus were years in which he not only gained the best from his Alma Mater but also returned his best in service. The "Big Boy" began his career back in the days of the Academy. He has always been an all-around fellow, active in campus organizations and excelling in athletics. Four years he served as the backbone of defense in basketball and football as well as winning his "J" in track. But his interests and work did not stop here, being president of his class his Sophomore year, a member of the Men's Glee Club, the Student Council and the Tribunal.

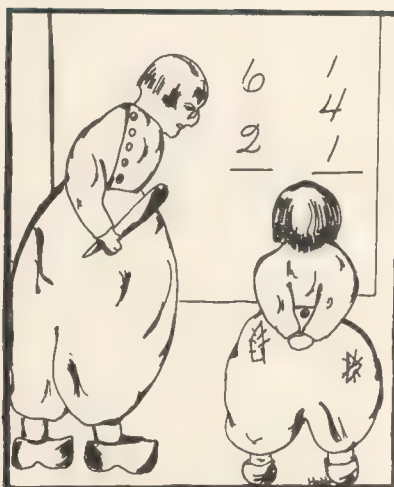

The students of Juniata recognized the versatility and dependability of Walter Grove in choosing him as winner of the Hutchinson prize.

The Christ of College Hill

*Beneath the trees of College Hill
When shadows dark and still are creeping,
Christ walks as if to make a guard,
While all our little world is sleeping.*

*He walks the night down through the halls,
And on the campus clear-laid sees
The paths worn smooth by eager feet,
The searching ways of man are these.*

*He notes each tousled sleeping head,
Fast seeking rest and dreaming sweet,
And smiles at those who, late come in,
Tiptoe the stairs with quiet feet.*

*Dry world of books, not this, my friend,
For this is life, both joy and pain,
And tears and smiles are blended here,
And Christ is pleased and smiles again.*

CLASSES

Prizes for 1927

The awarding of prizes is always an interesting feature of the Commencement program. Generally, as was the case last year, the prizes are bestowed upon Seniors who during their college days have attained such standards in various fields as to merit the recognition which the prizes carry with them.

THE DR. A. B. BRUMBAUGH SCIENCE PRIZE

Rufus Reber was the recipient of the Dr. A. B. Brumbaugh Science Prize for proficiency in Biology, Physics, and Chemistry. This award of twenty-five dollars is offered annually as a memorial to A. B. Brumbaugh, M.D., a former secretary of the Board of Trustees of Juniata College, by his son, Dr. G. M. Brumbaugh, an alumnus of the college.

THE JUSTINA MARSTELLAR LANGDON PRIZE

By a tie vote of the women of Juniata, the Justina Marstellar Langdon award of fifty dollars was divided between Misses Ruth Culbert and Zola Myers. This prize is given annually to that woman in the college who best exemplifies the spirit of helpfulness to others, gentleness of character, and loyal devotion to Juniata. This memorial has been provided by the parents of the late Mrs. Chester L. Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. James Marstellar.

THE GEORGE W. WARFEL PRIZES

Upon Ruth Cunningham and James Weimer were bestowed, by the Faculty, the two Warfel Prizes of fifty dollars each. These prizes are awarded annually to the two students, one man and one woman, who in their relation to the standards of Juniata, to the Faculty, and to student ideals and activities, give the best expression of the grace of obedience as a fundamental virtue in religion, social life, and business activities.

THE DR. AND MRS. THADDEUS HYATT CUP

To Andrew Lawson the Faculty Committee awarded the Dr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Hyatt Cup—a token given to the student who in football, scholarship, and character best merits it.

The history of this class involves a review of four outstanding years in the life of the college. We can no more than sketch the preparation for the Jubilee Year, the anniversary celebration, the New Era year and this last year in which this class saw the first fruits of Juniata's second half century. If, omitting personal comments and flowery visions, we can still set forth the major points of four happy years on the campus, the purpose of this review has been achieved.

Juniata's fifty-second class was as varied as any group taken from high schools and academies could be, with majors ranging from scholarship to athletics in general, and from oratory to music in specific activities. From this group, Merrill Henry, the first president, had to construct an organized body—The Class of 1928.

The events touching the Freshman year played no small part in the development of the group. The first outing, at Terrace Mountain, left a lasting impression, the opposition to the Sophomores grew in number of moral and other victories. The dinks were an epochal type of label.

On January 28, 1925, the class expressed its loyalty to Juniata, the eve of the gala inaugural of President M. G. Brumbaugh. With the guidance of an educator of ripened experience and under the influence of a character building institution, to use the terms of the speaker at the inauguration, the class was to carry on their collegiate career.

Sophomore and Junior years constituted a transitional period, and Jubilee Anniversary added to the class philosophy. On Founder's Day, April 17, 1926, when Charles Swab, Howard Heinz and other notables and friends of President Brumbaugh were guests of the college, the Sophomores saw extensive service. At Commencement, 1926, when Secretary Daniels spoke of the mission of the graduates of the small college, the Sophomores visioned, from different standpoints, the coming day of graduation in splendid fashion. The New Era Alfarata was published, ground was broken for the new Men's Dormitory, and the celebration of the New Era year gave the Junior class ample opportunity to show its merit.

Senior year came quickly and events seemed to take on a more serious aspect. The responsibility and leadership in campus activities rested with us: we tried to fill those positions.

The arrival, organization and growth of this class have been duly carried out, and briefly described herein. The departure, scheduled for June 4, 1928, will give to the world seventy-five more of Juniata's best. Prepared fully to grow both in understanding and in sympathetic coöperation with our fellow men, we face the great adventure with eagerness. Bright college years behind us, glowing hopes in our hearts, and the world of service and achievement beyond the horizon, we salute thee, Alma Mater, and farewell.

SAMUEL J. KING
RIDGLEY, MD.

Science

In this son from the "woody" part of Maryland rests all the executive mechanism of the Senior Class. Sam has never entered into the field of athletics but he has a stylish "hand-out" in forensics and creative intelligence. With no adaptability to baseball, he has a life of innings, the last of which will tally a record production in the pinch—in it always a man and a friend. With the relief of the burden of Alfarata-ism, Sam mustered up courage and stole the time to "step out," choosing a nominally poetic romanticist—Shelly—as an interesting study pursuit.

A rare personage towering scholastically as editor, student, and friend. Socially Eunice has made her debut; poetically she abounds in abominable verse and poetic prose; practically she is in increasing demand—universally unequalled. From the back ages when she was "ittle 'Unice 'Alker" she has prevailed as dominant in artistic taste and mental equilibrium. She almost lost her balance and dignity in dissolving Alfarata and Juniatian tangles; eventually she brought about harmony with a sigh of relief. To find another Eunice who can make Noah Webster feel slightly dizzy will be a problem for next year's Juniatian.

Pandora did Juniata a great favor in sending "Dick" east, and likewise she chose a better climate for the son who will some day be greeted with a brass band reception. No attempted course has floored him, and he carried off the blue ribbon and cash in "General Information." German and "Dick" get along like old friends and he has never been found in any "snap" courses of any type. This lover of all things beautiful and natural is usually silent until by logical reasoning he identifies certainty and then he sets forth a lucid explanation of the difficulty at hand.

Juniata's first observance of Bill was that his dreamy eyes proclaimed him a misfit. His uncommon common sense and humor, however, proved the observations wrong.

He might charm the fair sex in leisure hours but he prefers to utilize his time outside of class in sleeping late or contemplating the enchanting vistas upon which the door of medicine opens.

A competent judge, he tasted of the delicious academic fruits but never indulged more than politely. He is companionable in his walk and talk and his regular journeys to the post-office are crowded with "howdies."

In summer, regular pastor, at college, the best of students, thus George exemplifies his lofty conception of life.

As a representative of the Ministerium, Y. M. C. A., Volunteer Band, and much demanded singer and song leader, George gives to the world the best that is in him, and a splendid best, we think it.

True to Juniata as well as to "that certain party" he can lay aside his work when occasion demands his cracking good jokes and his lusty "Ha, ha". However, if work sticks to George as well as he does to it—we just want to keep away from it.

When "Chatsie" left the bread mansion to join the hungry line at J. C. she fell right into responsibility. A new environment challenged her, and she rose to the heights, marvelling not at her less apt classmates.

In athletics and in the literary field her biography is complete, and the social side of her life is rapidly reaching its ultimate fulfillment. Yes, the suspense was relieved early in the summer. "Johnnie" hasn't missed much at Juniata. What he doesn't know he doesn't tell, but maybe he doesn't expostulate on all that he is certain of knowing. Every so often he lubricates the cogs of the wheels of learning with a soothing discourse, but usually in class he is quite peaceful.

On the tennis court he is quite at home and in the social world he lives near enough to the campus to be a part of that pleasant atmosphere. In short, we have a scholarly and logical salesman who delivers the goods.

Your attention is directed to a good student and one who had the nerve to discontinue a course in which his average was high. Yes, sir,—that is Clarence's way—exertion causes fatigue and nineteen hours was a big order.

Nevertheless, Frye travels a routine of regular study and honest to goodness work. A little bit of fancy, a studious look, and a short step feature his arrival, and his conversation tells of a lot of eager ambition, lofty ideals, and reasons on both sides of Psychology vs. More Psychology.

This gentleman is a book in himself. Teacher, student, and research worker, showing in each capacity alacrity and driving force he never loses time. Experiences during the war and later on the Indian reservations serve him with plenty of material for a book if he chose to write.

As registrar, work demands only part of his resourcefulness: as a teacher, he abounds in examples: as a student and friend, he combines lofty purposes and steady work with pleasant daily exchange of conversations and good turns.

HELEN SWAN

Demure and sweet "Swanee" proceeds to her post of duty with warmest greetings from a host of friends. A council position has not changed her disposition nor made her lose any part of her play-fair spirit. Her speech is not of the flattering kind but it makes its own singular impression and registers with force the feeling which prompts it. More serious than average, her practical suggestions are held in straight channels by the etiquette which guides her every statement. Petite and brainy seem the only two adjectives left which apply in full meaning.

"Know me"—so spelled by a punster with good intent, means that her nick name is associated with a most apparent congeniality, joyousness, and friendliness.

Her positions as student debater, journalist, actor, and sweetheart have been filled as only she could fill them. Her experiences add to collegiate data, her sympathy and kindly advice have heartened many, her criticisms are justly cutting or consoling depending upon merit, and her theories are beautifully idealistic.

Four short years, and a personality has once more placed its indelible signature on the honor roll of Juniata.

A little fancy plus a little love comprises the recipe for Ruth's life. Quite limber and nimble she comports herself in dainty debutante fashion, while the essence of humor and severity alike find room in the spacious compartments of her affection.

Whether her voice is always gentle, soft, and low is a question, yet her artificial horror of the dreadful "saxophobia" makes a wide appeal to the more romantic type of Arts Club people. Speaking of fountain pens, "Turner" devoutly declares that she has found none quite so satisfying and enduring as the "Parker."

Mary at the present is diligently studying cookery—fried liver and chocolate milk make a tasty menu—so the lucky gentleman is sure of food with his meals at least.

Rosalie stays with her mother in a quiet home within hailing distance of the campus. Her daily trips to school are part of a life of steady effort and sincere preparation for every contingency.

She paddles her own canoe with the daintiest of paddles and dreams sweetly through at least eight hours well earned rest every night. The only compliment she ever made herself was that she couldn't find shoes small enough for her feet. That's no fun for those whose worry it may be.

A little time elapsed since this local product first appeared on the campus, but she came back from Sargent for a liberal and artistic degree. To be more congenial she roomed in the dormitory and played basketball along with the rest of her work.

Fourth Brumbaugh found her a quiet addition, Juniata a timely student. Experienced and assertive in the social world, she fits into any environment, yet always expresses the ambitions in which she will find, someday, a well earned reward.

Pep personified! When Betty swings down the hall it is always with twinkling toes and a gay exchange of banter that she pounces on the piano and relieves it and herself of suppressed feelings. After four years of Juniata she still caters to an impulsive vivacity that keeps her moving constantly at both work and play. She has sold her Irish birth right to someone who liked to grumble and kept only her "Aw gee, kid" iced over with a chuckle and an infectious grin that invites the world to "Step right up and call me speedy!"

Education

We have the privilege of here presenting a genuine student of the old type, one who stands out scholastically as a prize winner in his own department of college affairs. As a product of what knowledge can do, Charles is a real example. No one who has ever been in a class with him can say that he lacks one whit of ability and capacity, nor can we find any trace of a rumor that a prof ever stuck him with a question. May fortune favor him in his work and may a keen knowledge of psychology aid in a closer understanding of his fellow men.

When love first comes into a fellow's life it looks bad for the classics. But this chatterer has gone and got hooked for life and says he enjoys it. At Juniata, with his family near at hand, he is endeavoring to learn the gentle art of debate. With practice on the platform and at home as well we may have him made into a finished product soon.

A devotee of all that is Junitian, he with the rest of the "season" may be seen in attendance at all of the campus events that may prove of possible interest and profit.

JUNIORS

Junior Class History

Motto: Honor lies at labor's gate.

Colors: Buff and Crimson.

OFFICERS

|                |           |                |               |           |           |
|----------------|-----------|----------------|---------------|-----------|-----------|
| WILLIAM AREY   | - - - - - | President      | VIOLA KEPHART | - - - - - | Secretary |
| ALFRED HOCKLEY | - - -     | Vice-President | JEWETT HENRY  | - - - - - | Treasurer |

Was it not fitting that after fifty years of faithful service Juniata should be rewarded with this aggregation? At the very beginning they rushed with vim and enthusiasm into the duties and work of their first year and after several victorious affrays with the vengeful Sophs they emerged happy and smiling, ready for the first year of the New Era. After a second year's close contact with Juniata's ideals of clean sport, sound scholarship, chivalrous manhood, womanly deportment, this thoroughly alive crowd of young people returned as Juniors, again to greet old classmates and friends.

The spirit of this class might be traced, through its perseverance and pluck as Freshmen and Sophomores, to its expansion and unfoldment as Juniors. As Frosh they behaved seemly, gained some repute in varsity athletics, Freshmen debate, organization and interclass activities. As Sophomores they walloped the Frosh 12-0 in football, 17-15 in men's and 34-4 in women's basketball, won the tug-of-war and made a very respectable showing in the Interclass meet. Aside from these feats of strength the class of '29 pressed strongly into student activities and held their own against all classes in scholarship. Socially, the class made the traditional Sophomore sleigh ride to Neal's where the Soph spirit rose high in song and merrymaking and nourished itself with chicken and waffles. June 1927 the class of '29, looking in retrospect on the year then just past, saw itself well represented in the classroom, the playfield, and the various campus activities. As Juniors the class of '29, still the same alert, lively group, but moderated by Juniata life with all its traditions and customs, began seriously to realize that college was not a preparation for life but that it was life itself. And with this serious turn of mind they approached the group task of publishing a successful yearbook, and of individually advancing into the realms of true mental culture, sound social standards, and honest spiritual evaluations.

So it is now, after Move-Up Day, with the accumulated experience and breadth of vision as Juniors that we look over the past and know that Juniata has given us much and yet has much to give. With the vision of a Senior year of hard work and fair play we face the future courageously and happily.

WILLIAM O. AREY
PARKERSFORD, PA.

Arts

Witness a gentleman we have learned to appreciate as "Bill" and learned to care for as "airy" though by inheritance he is Arey and by paternal title William Oliver. He amuses without half trying but it was pure ability that gave him his class presidency. To keep the continued approval of such a group is an achievement indeed and we extend our congratulations.

VIOLA D. KEPHART
TYRONE, PA.

Arts

A quick step, a cheery smile, and you have a feeling that you'd like to know that girl—"Honey". To say her eyes are blue, her heart is true would be pathetic poetry but we mean well. However, her Sunday afternoon partner, has been different each of her three years here, who would ever have believed it?

H. ALFRED HOCKLEY
LEBANON, PA.

Science

Here is a famous native of the "tall cedar" region who favors us with his presence and his hearty laugh. His best dramatic role has just been playing his own good natured self, with no earthly cares except the class which comes the next period. Always ready to do his best, he deserves the feeling of a work well done.

C. JEWETT HENRY
JUNIATA, PA.

Science

Business will never die when Jewett is present, for his business is to make more of it. He is rather a conservative individual, no doubt forced to be so by long handling of class finances. Each track season finds him turned into a perfect strider in great form for Juniata's hop to victory. We report him a clever business man and a splendid friend.

RALPH E. BARNETT
FRIEDENS, PA.

Science

Barnett is quiet and reserved, somewhat bashful, too, but this, no doubt, is due to his early life in the "Styx." However, he loses these peculiar qualities in the dining room, where his booming bass is of quite sufficient quality to capably assist Hardy Engle. Then, too, he makes an efficient guide for erring Freshmen.

ELIZABETH BAILEY
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Special

A judicial offspring who metes out justice to every course and taxes romanticists for great rewards. She has a penchant for extemporaneous reports in school, a car to help her entertain elsewhere, and a helping hand to lift anyone from a sea of despair. What more can we say of any one—mighty fine girl?

ROBERT A. BAGSHAW
HOLLIDAYSBURG, PA.

Arts

Somewhere in the vicinity of Williamsburg Bob spent his first birthday and most of the years before he came to enlighten us. He is only human and very quiet but is not without an alert wit and temper. He lets his humor function as an inhibition or stimulation but his natural tendencies countenance no restrictions and usually land him in the rock or wood.

GEORGE E. BEERY
MARTINSBURG, PA.

Science

A satellite on the gridiron, "Moon" is busy during class hours holding up the high standards set by his family here. More interested and versed in sports, perhaps, yet he finds an attraction in the women's dormitory which helps to brighten his school days and makes the long grind easier.

GALEN R. BLOUGH
BELLWOOD, PA.

Arts

A traveling man whose black hat and assumed air of severity pronounce him to be a student minister and a cordial friend as well. He studies hard and with utmost zeal for he has a family waiting at home which expects him to make good and he just can't disappoint them.

L. FERNE BOUCHER
ROCKWOOD, PA.

Arts

Another quiet native of Rockwood whose versatility intrigues one's interest. She hikes and paints in her spare hours and the Arts Club has a monopoly on her extra-curricular activity. Irreverent teasing fails to upset her even temper and equilibrium and she does not become incensed at the most puerile interruptions.

THOMAS BONEBRAKE
MARTINSBURG, PA.

Science

Nature's criterion of universality proves that Tom in "one in a million." Eventually we will domesticate him and he'll settle down some place where we can see him more. He's just one of those students who stick close enough to "keep his distance" and yet not miss anything that might by chance be worth wasting his time to see.

DOROTHY J. BRATTON
RYDE, PA.

Arts

If Plautus knew how this fair lady would "Ryde" him, we dare say he would have turned in his grave long ago. We're proud of the way she skirmishes along the ambushes of language and, with a determined grip on the essentials of study, never lets go. Dot's persistent efforts entitle her to quote the "I came, I saw, I conquered" of her ancient friend Caesar.

MARION J. BRUMBAUGH
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Arts

A natural ability to grasp things quickly without much effort and a paternal inheritance in the wee sma' languages gives Marion somewhat of an advantage. Her major campus interest is in the Press Club and all school publications where her valued assistance can be given. A continual process of making new friends and confirming old ones completes the enviable record.

AMY M. COMMONS
HASTINGS, PA.

Science

A carefree, happy lady who always has a kind word or pleasantry for all her companions. The science course may not be so exceedingly intriguing but she manages to put enough of a good time into the long hours of preparation and classes that she finds enjoyment even in the process of poring over the musty tomes in the library.

CYRUS O. CAULTON
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Science

"Cy" came from W. P. H. S. to help us out in the Physics department, but his interest went beyond the campus to a little city over the mountain. He stars on the tennis court in summer time, but in winter he confines his activities to the walks and talks allowed by the joint rulings of the student councils.

MARION J. COMMONS
NANTY-GLO, PA.

Arts

This little Miss with the naughty eyes danced her way into the hearts of a chosen few and stayed. A tendency toward mischief is inhibited by a sense of duty and responsibility to others. "Impess" seems to have been born with a spacious skull capacity that is comparatively well filled and enables her to amble along with ease on her elevated tour.

JOSEPH R. CONNOR

HARRISBURG, PA.

Commerce and Finance

Just as Joe's family drifted up from Virginia, so did Joe drift to Juniata. It was the swelling of the tide, too, for J. C. and her hitting nine. Joe hibernates in the winter to enjoy a peace that only sleep can give. Not usually an exponent of the law of conservation of energy, there is a chance of a foul in hours sometimes.

GULA V. CUTEHALL

SIX MILE RUN, PA.

Music

Gula drifted out of "somewhere into here" with the idea that perhaps she had missed her calling. Her hardest job is to appear indifferent when she isn't. The easiest job is to write that certain letter and wait for its answer while she applies herself to her beloved music with great avidity.

ALFRED B. CORBIN

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Arts

A student and a pastor who manages to fit both kinds of duties into the daily schedule of a day student. A pleasant talker in the club room "gab-fests", he is well liked and fully appreciated by a circle of friends that seems to grow with each year spent on the hill.

FRED H. DAVIDSON

BEDFORD, PA.

Science

Conscientious, insistent, Fred applies himself to the work at hand, grinding out the day's stint with visions of the reward ahead. The orchestra seems to find him a welcome addition and the fiddle is generally in use every time he can find a spare moment to express the longings of a soul too greatly restrained by routine.

GIDEON DRAKE
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Arts

A capable chauffeur, ever ready to give a lift to any belated way-farers on their way to early classes. Not exuberant in his use of speech he knows whereof he speaks in class. German and psychology help fill a schedule on which there are few "snaps" and the completion of which is a creditable year's work.

WARREN H. ENDRES
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Science

Another deus e machina who helps out on sunny afternoons when a drive into the country clears the mists from clouded brows. Usually busy in the vertebrate laboratory, Warren finds it convenient to roam around during the noon hour with the old bus packed to the guards with day students, and the 1:15 bell rings all too soon.

EARL ECHARD
DUNCANSVILLE, PA.

Science

Earl is a very serious minded young man. After a year's leave of absence this son of Juniata returned to the fold and was welcomed with open arms, especially by one of the fair sex.

Earl is a conscientious student, an unsuspecting and unsophisticated lad. Add to his intellectual ability good sportsmanship and we have a true friend. What more could one ask?

J. ARTHUR FERNER
TYRONE, PA.

Arts

The beloved Scotchman who edited this volume. Upon Sandy's shoulders has fallen a heavy burden of work, but he has demonstrated to us how much facility may be included in great projects. Ever generous with his smiles and help on the most intricate question, he gave us but little of his spare time, until, to our joy, he found an irresistible attraction on Washington Street, that kept him nearer, at least, to the campus.

EVA B. FILSON
BURNHAM, PA.

Education

"Eve" is hard to win over but when you once occupy a berth in her good graces you're in luck. Reserved, but quite constant in her wait for those daily letters, she proclaims him to be quite the Romeo. Her sudden streak of class loyalty brought us a real soccer player whom it was a delight to watch "toeing" around the field.

M. PAULINE FIKE
MEYERSDALE, PA.

Arts

A quiet little personage who utters words of deepest wisdom and who can be most entertaining at other times and places for her companions. The long hiking tours bring a glow of health to the cheeks and a rise in quality of study ability that may lead many more girls into the fold of the club to which she is a credit as a member.

J. WALLACE FLECK
ALTOONA, PA.

Science

A pre-medical man who delights in practical jokes on his fellow commuters, but whose pleasant air and genial attitude make up for this so-called fault. In classes he never misses a single occurrence and his report cards show that it is wise to use such an owl-like intensity of gaze.

JOSEPHINE E. FLEMING
McCLURE, PA.

Science

Every scientist must have a disaster, and Joe got hers in the form of an overdose of hydrogen sulphide. Her hours aside from chemistry are spent in hiking on the ridges, where she leads her little troop to the marker. She is a true friend and a real student.

CLAUDE R. FLORY
ROYERSFORD, PA.

Science

Few persons can use as many words to say nothing when he is in a mood to flatter, and can say as much in a few words as Claude can in forensics. His hobby is English and his ambition is to be a great orator. With the "Prexy's" fishy narratives combined with his own perseverance, we promise him a bright future.

ORLENA M. FREE
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Arts

"Or" appears in a quiet, simple fashion even on the basketball floor, but her reserve carries with it untold efficiency. Did you know that she can stage about the niftiest little parties ever? And so her friends are many and her enemies, none—a tabulation of which to be proud.

G. FERN FOUST
JOHNSTOWN, PA.

Home Economics

A clever lady of the type gentlemen prefer—and she holds forth the prized qualifications of the best of blondes. Sweet and demure, her work in the kitchen will make some lucky man sure of being well fed as well as highly entertained by this female paragon.

MARY E. GAUNTZ
MEYERSDALE, PA.

Arts

Mary is rather quiet and subdued at times but she has her moments of contagious exuberance. She has acquired the habit of blending studies and pleasures so skillfully that neither suffers at the expense of the other. She has her lessons prepared but misses none of the fun.

HUGH S. GEORGE

HAGERSTOWN, Md.

Commerce and Finance

The basketball court and the post of assistant football guide have claimed much of Hugh's time but his fame rests not on that. Every one in the school can testify to his big-heartedness, and his kindly, bluff manner has earned him a place in the hearts of his fellow students. A congenial comrade—work or play.

M. ELIZABETH GNAGEY

MEYERSDALE, PA.

Arts

Our smiling associate editor, whom Sandy labels "The hardest working little lady on the campus." She does get a lot of work accomplished and her circle of friends can prove that once her inherent shyness is broken through she makes a most interesting companion and a splendid pal through every struggle and pleasure of college life.

GWENDOLYN R. GEORGE

ELMIRA, N. Y.

Arts

Gwendolyn and quietness are synonymous terms. Located at the extreme end of the Oneidas, she is lured away only by fiction or artistic attractions. Her imagination is too vivid to strut any half way achievements; She either is or isn't without detraction, and that's that.

MARY L. GROVE

HESSTON, PA.

Arts

Mary's room has always been a refuge for the afflicted in body or soul, and she has been a ministering angel. Of a versatile personality that contains all the fire and fight of a brave Amazon plus the gentler qualities of a compassionate heart, she has been a remarkable basketball player, a keen student, and a leader of the social life of the campus.

WALTER J. HAMER
JUNIATA, PA.

Science

All truly great men have hobbies, and Walter is no exception to the rule, for at any hour he may be found in Science Hall. As a student he stands near the top of the scale and yet he can always find time for other college activities. In three years he has collected an assistant's place and a host of friends as well.

DONALD M. HILL
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Science

Some persons are tossed about on the waves of popularity while others ride on the steadier tide of good will. Don is known to all the students and is liked by everyone who knows him. A daily visitor, he contents himself with doing his work well and stays with us only on nights the orchestra holds forth.

HELEN M. HARNER
NEW ALEXANDRIA, PA.

Arts

The staff boasts of this little girl as one of its real artistic personages. She sees beauty in delicate color and symmetry rather than in the oddly unusual design of the cubist. And these principles are so embodied in her character that we know her not only as an accomplished artist but as a gentle low-voiced lady whom we greatly admire.

IRENE H. HOLDSWORTH
PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA.

Arts

One seldom finds a girl who is pretty, charming, and coy at the same time, but this is true of Irene. An excellent student, fond of activity in social organizations, she has made a place for herself envied by many. With her cheery optimism she can always find time for pleasure in leisure hours.

ANNE M. JONES
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Arts

Queen Anne of the Street Parade! A daily visitor who possesses a royal type of shyness that she breaks through only when she doesn't know her data—and then it's just "sling 'em a line." Coupled forever with Lady Luck, she lets no one learn her system and always comes through with her faith unshaken. Anne recently rode in her regal chariot to a wedding, the first of the Jones', if you please.

MARY E. KNAUFF
McCONNELLSBURG, PA.

Arts

A typically modern American girl who is perfectly capable of taking care of herself, fond of sport, intelligent in classes and in everyday knowledge, and above all, endowed with a generous portion of femininity. Mention of her name is an evidence of her respect and popularity with fellow students and faculty.

RUTH L. KIRK
McCONNELLSBURG, PA.

Arts

Ruth's in a rush! No, gang, that's impossible. Efficiency and steady practicality give us here a perfect combination in a girl whose friends are many. Ruth enjoys the type of fun that can be reconciled with a calm student council conscience and has just enough care-free optimism to keep her always interesting.

RUTH KNEPP
LEWISTOWN, PA.

Arts

An unobtrusive miss who has fitted nicely into our plan of active school life. She has very definite ideas of her own upon most subjects and has the will power to assert them. But, too, this faculty includes adeptness in enlisting one's aid rather than antagonizing.

MARY S. HOOPER
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Arts

A hometown girl of a sincere, steadfast type who believes "if a thing is worth doing at all it is worth doing well". Balancing this serious, business-like side of her nature she has an ever present fund of humor and a keen appreciation of all that is good and beautiful in life.

RALPH B. JACKSON
EVERETT, PA.

Arts

A slow, deliberate fellow who goes about his business in an inconspicuous way. When anyone strikes a hard place, he is paged vigorously and never in vain. He has neglected Campusology in a shameful manner, but his name is synonymous with good work in every other department.

M. OLIVE HUMMEL
LEWISTOWN, PA.

Arts

A good student and an all around college girl. To be kind-hearted and patient seems to be second nature to her. Always in a hurry, yet she is never too busy to stop and chat for a while, and seems to find time for everything in her well ordered, daily routine of work.

HAROLD S. JOHNSTON
HUNTINGDON, PA.

Commerce and Finance

Harold has the honor of being best man—to a druggist. He makes flying trips to the hill daily and feminine hearts flutter but he seems to be unmoved by a mutual inward stirring. That's all right, Harold, you usually have deeper problems to solve.

HELEN T. KREBS

HUNTINGDON, PA.

A chick little damsel who means business—that's our "Tiny." Every day has a night and, if seeing is believing, she monopolizes them all. A real lively co-ed who spends most of her time down the way—never missing anything nor leaving any problem untouched.

HAZEL M. LATSHAW

CURRYVILLE, PA.

Arts

Hazel is one of the quietest girls in her class but her silence is golden. Quiet in a crowd, she has a droll humor which is highly valued by her immediate friends. Sincere in everything she says or does, she is never too overworked to help some one who is in need of aid.

PAUL KURTZ

BELLWOOD, PA.

Arts

"You can't keep a good man down," and Paul is that man. With unlimited ability he actually figures things out where others leap to fallacious conclusions. He comes with the dawn but unlike the dew, sunlight does not consume him nor his armload of books. The editor wishes in this manner to thank him for the excellent advice and material aid given in the making of this volume.

GERALDINE M. LAING

COALPORT, PA.

Science

Tall in stature and big in ability in every field of athletics or gymnastics. Many a Freshman might bless her for a timely word of advice received and an upper-classman benefit by her tangible influence for fair play and good sportsmanship. Not only an athlete but a good student and a worthy friend, we congratulate her.

M. MADALYN LOWNEY
CLEARFIELD, PA.

Arts

Madalyn keeps a refuge for all stray kittens and is an expert on pets of all kinds. There are: Moses, sleeping in the reed basket, Jimmy, George, a lovable doll who may be borrowed on a lonely night, and last, the weather cock that gets Madalyn up for breakfast on rainy mornings and is the pride of fourth Brumbaugh.

OLIVE M. MACALARNEY
ST. BENEDICT, PA.

Home Economics

The possessor of a warm aspiring soul, only partly hid by a timid exterior. She is diligent in her preparation of the daily lessons and many times her persistence has brought her out on top. The world needs a great many more of just such people to fall back upon.

EUGENE McCAHAN
BIRMINGHAM, PA.

Arts

"Gene" surprised us by arriving on this side of the Senior credit line ahead of schedule. This shows he is a real student and believes that none of the few years of life should be wasted.

He brought us some western culture from the Blackburn Academy located at Carlinville, Illinois.

We are sure proud of him and we know that Birmingham is also. Keep up your pace Gene.

Contests at Juniata

The oratorical and literary contests form no small part of the interesting events of the college year. The chapel, as well as the gridiron, is often the scene of keen rivalry. In order to promote an interest in literary and oratorical pursuits friends of Juniata have offered money prizes to those who excel. When the importance of public address is realized even more will become active participants in these contests.

THE BAILEY CONTEST

The Hon. Thomas Fisher Bailey, President Judge of the Twentieth Judicial District of Pennsylvania, has established, as a memorial to his father, two prizes of twenty-five and fifteen dollars to be awarded annually to the speakers who take first and second places, respectively, in a public oratorical contest. The orations are judged on the basis of subject matter, composition, and delivery.

In the contest of 1927, awards were made to two seniors, Vernon Replogle winning first place and Dorothy Doyle second place.

THE EMMA L. DIEHM CONTEST

Edgar G. Diehm '17 has established, as a memorial to his mother, a prize of fifteen dollars to be awarded annually to the winner of a contest in extempore speaking. This contest was inaugurated in 1926 and has attracted many orators. The subject for discussion this year was "Presidential Possibilities." Elizabeth Gassert '28 received the prize.

GENERAL INFORMATION CONTEST

Through the generosity of a friend there have been established two prizes of fifteen and ten dollars each to be awarded annually to the two students who take first and second places in an examination on general information.

Last year Richard Amstutz, '28, won the first prize. Robert Cassady, '27, was awarded second place and Dorothy Fouse, '28, and Glenn Reiman, '29, shared the honors of third place.

THE ORATORICAL UNION

Last year Juniata was admitted to the Eastern Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Oratorical Union. Representatives from Albright, Bucknell, Franklin and Marshall, Gettysburg, Ursinus, and Juniata compete for honors for their colleges.

Roy Shrock '29 was selected from the three who competed to represent Juniata at Muhlenburg this year.

Youth is capable of turning from the ridiculous to the sublime at very short notice. Witness Move-Up Day at Juniata in the year 1927. The sun, that had so gloriously arisen on a band of "rampant greenies," ere it dropped below the western hills, had seen only a class of "Wise Fools." A miraculous transformation? No! In days of Freshman trial and temptation these men and women, passing through persecution and ridicule had emerged triumphant, to pursue the duties of Juniata Sophomores.

Holding high the pledge of loyalty to college and to class this modern legion entered within the wall of Juniata for the 1927-28 term. Class spirit ran high and enlisted each in a perfect unit, working with the class officers. Organizations once more called and the Sophomores trooped to fill places of responsibility in clubs, play casts, athletic teams, debate teams, and literary and religious fields. Joyously working, never lagging, doing the work well, characterizes this class of Sophomores.

Came the day when our toreadors waved the red flag before the brazen bulls of the yearling class. A football game replete with thrills and real team work resulted. Our team held its own until an infuriated rush of the greenies gave them a two point advantage and a vision of victory and "open nite." But their vision was short lived as the Sophomore lads carried the ball the length of the field for a six pointer. So stood the score when the whistle announced that one more Soph-Frosh Classic belonged to the ages.

Basketball teams, and co-ed soccer both held the spotlight for a brief time, but of lesser triumphs and defeats, of petty disturbances and disillusionments, of attractions and repulsions, we mention as little as possible. To the future must be entrusted the problems of an advancing group of men and women. Alfarata calls for capable leadership and management, new athletic contests need our attention, worlds are everywhere—they will be conquered.

With you Juniata, our Alma Mater, we trust our futures. You have given us of your best, we have not been deceived or disillusioned in you. Therefore it will never be said of the class of '30 that your trust has been betrayed by them.

The Ground-Breaking

The ground-breaking ceremony which took place on the site of the new men's dormitory May 12, 1927, was an unique happening in several senses. In the first place, it marked the actual beginning of work upon the first of the buildings which will be the signs of a materially "greater Juniata." In the second place, it happened on Move-Up day, which was in itself a new idea at Juniata. The ground-breaking was a fitting event for Move-Up day, for both the ceremony and the day itself were symbols of the New Era.

Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh had charge of the ceremony and around him gathered the circle of spectators. Cameras clicked busily, recording the scene for future Juniatians. Prof. W. J. Swigart, who acted as the representative of the trustees and friends of the college, turned the first earth, doing it "In the name of the Master whom we serve." With pick and shovel Dr. I. Harvey Brumbaugh and Miss Lillian Evans, the faculty representatives, showed that their interest in the project could assume the form of broken clods.

Each of the four classes in the school had two representatives, one man and one woman, who continued the process of breaking ground. The Senior class, who had a particular interest in the event because they were the New Era class and the dormitory a New Era project, through their representatives had the first chance to demonstrate their superiority in the matter of turning clods as well as in more intellectual pursuits. The class of '28 had the next opportunity to prove their prowess with pick and shovel. The two lower classes, rivals to the end, each vied the efforts of their respective representatives against those of the other class; and thus a fitting conclusion to the program.

The event had a deep-seated significance. It was one sign of the beginning of Juniata's march forward in her New Era. To further this advance each group interested in Juniata—trustees, friends, faculty, and the four classes, through their representatives, not only lent their material aid in this project but also in substance promised their fidelity and aid to their own college.

Early in September one hundred and sixty-five compositions of the "greenest of the green" came to Juniata and were registered as Freshmen, with the usual accompanying preliminaries occurring at such a time. Into each one of these hearts has grown a love and devotion for the institution which they have chosen for their Alma Mater.

The new class was readily adopted by the upper-classmen into the Juniata family which strives and contends to give each willing student a good, Christian education. Of course discrimination was necessary, so in a short time each Freshman lad and lassie displayed the black "dink" and green arm band as "trade marks".

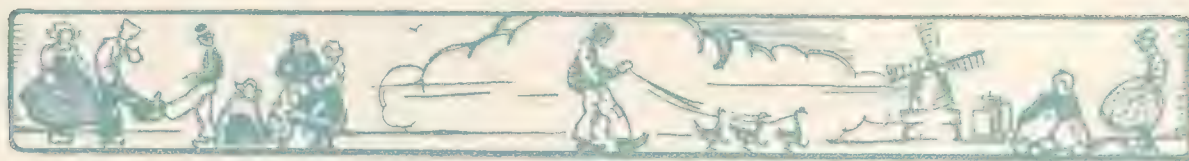

After the first week the newcomers organized into the Freshmen Club, which met each Friday night. At these meetings, interesting and educational programs were rendered by the members who displayed a great amount of talent and ability.

The class proper organized immediately after Thanksgiving and the newly elected officers assumed their respective duties in a capable manner, having the backing and support of all. A class constitution was prepared and was adopted. The regular meetings were held each Monday at which all business was transacted.

The verdant class has sent representatives into all fields of school activities. Five Freshmen received letters in football and two belong to the varsity basketball squad. The Freshmen girls have also shown their merits, having had a victorious soccer squad, and contributed to the basketball and debating teams. Members of '31 appear in the Glee Clubs, Orchestra, and Band.

With such a firm foundation we feel that the class of '31 will develop into a structure which, when viewed by the world, will reflect the beauty and value of Juniata through the group of virtuous men and women which she produces.

The Freshman Club for the Class of '31 was organized in September, soon after the regular routine of school had started. It consisted of a group of wide awake, energetic, and ambitious students, who entered Juniata with a warm welcome from the faculty and upper classmen. With the usual limitations and requirements of Freshman the Club began to function with all possible pep and enthusiasm.

The first opportunity for the Freshman to become acquainted with their fellow students came in the form of a "Get together" party, which was given in the gymnasium by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The next was a party given to the Freshmen by the Juniors. It is needless to say that this was enjoyed and appreciated very much.

During the first semester the Club held a series of weekly meetings at which the programs were very interesting and worthwhile, and many talented members of the organization contributed their bit to the benefit of the group.

The Freshman Club automatically disbanded with much regret at the end of the first semester, but the class continued to support and perpetuate the lofty ideals of Juniata, which had been entrusted to its members.

ORGANIZATIONS

Clubs at Juniata

Previous to the New Era Year, the clubs organized under the Lyceum system were depended upon as the means of providing the social life at Juniata. But this plan proved inadequate to meet the demands of a growing student body; and a complete re-organization was attempted. Dissolution of the existing clubs was a necessary step. This plan after receiving the approbation of students and faculty, was inaugurated as another new Era project.

The formation of the new clubs has been necessarily slow, and the beginning of the fifty-second year of Juniata's existence found us with only two active social clubs—the Alpha Club and the Arts Club. Since then two other clubs have been organized: namely, the Sigma Delta and the Tapitawe.

The new system has many admirable features. The restricted membership affords opportunity to all members of the club to give expression to their talents. Further more, the character of these clubs is general rather than specialized, thus providing a broader field of activity.

This idea can not be said to have been a fair trial thus far. The small number of clubs has not yet permitted the formation of an Inter-Club Council, which, as originally planned, would determine general policies and direct club activities. However the clubs in existence at the present time have been very efficient and they have afforded education as well as entertainment to a small number of fortunate students.

With the probability of organization of more clubs in the near future it is to be hoped that the progress in clubs will keep pace with Juniata's advancement along other lines in this, its second half century of existence.

The progressive spirit of the Home Economics department seems to have been communicated to this club which is part of it. The monthly meetings at the practice house have been very successful and the social committee has arranged programs in which very entertaining problems were discussed to mutual benefit. The chief social diversion of the year was the party given just before the Christmas recess.

The club is responsible for several projects such as supplying a library for the practice house and planting flowers to beautify the surroundings of the club's home. The real aim of the club, to further the department's work in school and community has been accomplished by means of public demonstration by the students. The annual exhibition and commencement tea are traditional affairs which have brought to this organization many warm comments of appreciation and praise.

Arts Club

RUTH TURNER - - - - - President   PARKER DUPLER - - - - - Vice-President

The Arts Club was organized by a group of students who wanted to provide ample opportunity for personal expression along the lines of practical and theoretical art, literature, and music. The programs include talks on painting, musical and dramatic interpretation, dance exhibitions, together with varied social events. One meeting was given over to an interesting discussion of painting by Dr. Bausch.

In May, 1927, this organization brought to the campus Frank Allen, well known artist, who addressed the club and showed his work. Valentine Kirby, Superintendent of Art in Pennsylvania schools, gave another talk at a later date.

The club is sponsoring the "Little Art" movement in conjunction with the Delphian club of Huntingdon. They also serve both school and town by developing native ability in interested students. These services, the most important, are no mean contribution to the advancement of our Alma Mater.

When the old traditional clubs of the college were dissolved on account of new standards set forth by the faculty, the Alpha Club was the first on the campus to satisfy the new requirements of clubs and to have a constitution ratified by the faculty. Its purpose as proclaimed in the constitution was two-fold; first, to foster and develop the performing talents of its members, dramatic or oratorical, or along whatever line their talent might lie; second, to stimulate the social life on the campus through an active club life.

To instill loyalty into the lives of Juniata students, to take part in the affairs of the college world, and especially, to relieve the monotony of life on the campus are the ideals toward which the Alpha Club is striving. Thus far it has indeed proven itself truly representative of the New Era spirit of progress.

MERRILL HENRY - - - - - President    MILDRED COKER - - - - - Secretary
 GAIL NORRIS - - - - - Vice-President    THELMA CUNNINGHAM - - - - - Treasurer
    HELEN SWAN - Chairman of Program Committee

The newest club on the campus has chosen for its slogan a true Indian name, that of a tribe of the Delaware Indians now almost extinct. The purpose of the Club in choosing an Indian name was three-fold: first, to honor the traditions of our native valley; second, to carry out the accepted insignia of the college; and, third, to find a name which would embody the ideals and ambitions of the club. The highest goal of any organization is coöperation and in living up to this name, which translated into English means "Together, all," decisive steps toward that goal will have been taken.

The history of the Club already enacted will not require a large amount of space for its review, but of its history in the making much could be said. We must not omit in these annals the never-to-be-forgotten sledding party, and all that went therewith, the initiation party which was the first step in the training of the loyal and talented members of the club, and breakfast at sunrise "mid the hills of Pennsylvania". These are the most outstanding of a series of happy gatherings which have made the life of the Club most enjoyable for all its members.

It has been said "nothing succeeds like success," and with such a record we cannot help but take pride in the achievements of so brief a history, and look forward to the success of future years, ready and expectant.

Sigma Delta Club

ELIZABETH BAILEY - - - - President    MARION BRUMBAUGH - - - - Secretary
 LUCILLE WISE - - - - Vice-President    WALTER HAMER - - - - Treasurer
 HUBERT SNYDER - Chairman of Program Committee

After the disbanding of the clubs at semesters last year a group of students felt the need of an organization which would especially emphasize literary studies. To meet these demands the Sigma Delta Club was formed and has been functioning throughout the year.

The purpose of this club is "to foster the appreciation of good literature through critical study and to develop the ability of speaking and writing correct English." The club attained this end the second semester by a systematic study of contemporary American literature, especially fiction and biography. This formal part of the programs was followed by informal entertainments in which all the members participated. Discussions along many lines, music, readings, —these and many other types of entertainment found places in the programs. Stunts and parties frequently interrupted the usual meetings.

The Sigma Delta Club has formed a center of interest about which a definite group of students have gathered. At semesters freshmen were privileged to join these ranks, where they could express their talents and opinions as well as become acquainted with America's foremost contemporary writers.

The Sigma Delta Club is young but strong, and has made a place for itself among the many campus organizations.

Hiking Club

LUCILLE WISE, Student Manager

Realizing that there should be some activity other than basketball in which girls might earn a letter the girls who hiked 300 miles during 1926-27 were awarded the Old English "J", while those who hiked 100 miles were awarded a J. C. monogram. From these girls was formed the hiking club and membership is retained by hiking 300 miles during the school year. The club members hike under the direction of a student manager. The hikes are chaperoned and their records are kept open for public inspection. The aim of the club is to develop not only sturdy bodies but keen appreciation of the beauties of nature about the college.

The Old English "J" is not given this year but another letter adopted by the club which does not entitle the wearer to "J" Club membership. Added impetus has been given to the clubs work by the added requirement of earning 100 points by hiking 300 miles in order to win class numerals. All the hikers have evidenced the keenest interest in the club and its welfare—a fact which argues well for the future development of this splendid campus organization.

Tau Kappa Alpha

SAMUEL KING - - - - - President
 RAYMOND MORRIS - - - Vice-President NAOMI TROSTLE - - Secretary-Treasurer

The purpose of TKA is to encourage forensics among undergraduates. Members of the Society must not only make a serious effort to improve their own mastery of the spoken word but they must exercise their talents in behalf of right and justice. Platform quackery and soap box oratory are not countenanced.

In keeping with the purpose of the organization the local chapter in 1927-28 assumed active sponsorship of debate and oratory at Juniata. An effort was made to create and maintain a more significant interest in forensics and qualified participants will be rewarded by initiation into the fraternal group.

Twenty-five years of consistent and successful debating at Juniata was fittingly climaxed last year by the establishment of a Juniata Chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary Forensic society, with more than sixty active chapters in as many colleges and universities throughout the United States. This recognition of Juniata forensic prowess was formally given May 18, 1927 when J. Wesley Lord and Alvin B. Biscoe, president and secretary respectively of the Dickinson Chapter, administered the initiatory rites with authority vested in them by the National Council of the Fraternity.

The charter group consisted of Telford Blough, President, Rufus Reber Vice-President, Swirls Himes, Secretary-Treasurer, Samuel King, Raymond Morris, Claude Flory and Dr. E. L. Craik (honorary). Ruth Culbert, Naomi Trostle, Marion Commons and Prof. Earl Dubbel (honorary) were subsequently initiated into the Fraternity.

RELIGION

The Ministerium

Within the walls of Juniata there are a goodly number of young men who have heard the call to full time Christian service and have determined to answer it. These men are banded together while at Juniata under the name of the Ministerium, and while they do not have organized meetings their influence is felt throughout the campus life. Above all others they uphold the ideals of the school and build the foundations of their lives on the clear cut principles of right thinking and fair play for which their Alma Mater stands.

Some of the students in the Ministerium are already doing work along their chosen line. Some fill charges every week, some do Christian service regularly, but the majority are putting forth their efforts to the end that they may become full-time Christian workers at the close of their college education. These students find a chance for real work and experience in the various Christian organizations of the college proper.

Juniata is building in the future. To the Ministerium falls the responsibility of keeping that pervading atmosphere of the school ever clear and distinct. As the members of that body have answered in the past so will they answer in the future—"Juniata, our lives will reflect thy principles of Christian conduct throughout our paths of service."

The Volunteer Group

The Christian ideals and the religious influence which the Volunteer Group has ever been striving to develop in the lives of the students have made it a most potent factor in the religious life of the campus and have earned for it a high place among the Christian organizations of the College.

The evidence of the influence of this organization is partly manifested by the number of students who readily respond to the call to the devotional meetings each Monday and Thursday evening. This interest seemed to have its start in the initial vesper service of the year which was held on historic Round Top and which instilled into every heart a desire to love and serve the Master better.

Beyond the campus the Volunteer Group is extending its influence to the far reaching Juniata district of Pennsylvania. Deputation teams are being sent out to the various churches of the district. These message bearers carry the message of Christ in song and word, and especially challenge the church to rally to the need of Home Missionaries.

Rev. Lewis Knepper, the college field secretary, has been appointed by the faculty to coöperate with the deputation work of the Volunteers. By his help the group has been able to reach out further into the Juniata field.

Other activities of the Volunteer Group are the entertaining of the Volunteer traveling secretary; the sending out of delegates to conferences; and the supporting of some definite missionary project. Finally, with Christ as the Great Ideal, the Volunteer Group challenges its members and friends to become more like Him, whether in stewardship of time and money or in service upon the home or foreign field.

Realizing the laxity of squareness and fairness in athletics the "Y" of Juniata has made an honest effort to iron out all unfair tactics in any game in which the representatives of the college or its various classes participate. The importance of being a Christian gentleman every day is constantly held before the student body because, "What we are today determines to a great extent our being of tomorrow"

In the regular Sunday evening assembly discussions are given by the faculty members, students, and at times a group discussion is the feature of the evening. The program of the hour is usually built around a theme emphasizing some particular phase of Christian life, and the common problems with which every man must come face to face in everyday living are discussed thoroughly.

It remains also with the organization to publish "The Indian", an indispensable asset to the maintenance of perpetual memories of Juniata's annual Home-Coming Day.

One of the most valuable pieces of service sponsored by the "Y" is the atmosphere of welcome which it creates for the year's new-comers. This is accomplished by letters of greeting and instruction which are sent some weeks previous to the opening of the school term. Upon arrival the new student is made to feel that he is a part of Juniata. The big factor that aids in bringing this feeling about on the part of the student is the big "Get-Together-Party" in which the "Big Brother and Sister" unite in entertaining the new students. Through this party the guests are able to get a substantial grip on Juniata.

"And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

With Christ as their example, one of the great purposes of the World Wide organization, the Y. W. C. A., is to develop the four-fold life of its girls. Juniata's Y. W. provides a means of contact with students of many colleges. It has begun by sending delegates to the quadriennial Student Volunteer Conference at Detroit and was represented at the conferences at Gettysburg, Eaglesmere, and Harrisburg.

The Y. W. starts its work with the "Big Sister" movement. During the summer the "big sisters" write to the new girls and after they arrive, help them to adapt themselves to their college life. The annual "Y" get-together which comes early in the year is a big factor in aiding the new-comers to get acquainted. Later comes the Christmas bazaar, which this year took the form of a snow carnival. In February there was staged an unique Leap Year Party at which the co-eds proved to be delightful hosts. The Y. W. banquet held early in the spring is a scene of gaiety and enjoyment.

The crowning event, of spring is the May Day festival. Visitors to the north Campus witness a colorful pageant as costumed lads and lassies entertain their Queen.

On Sunday evening the Y. W. holds its regular vesper service. These meetings are usually led by students, but frequently the students are favored by having a faculty member or visitor speak. With student leaders, discussions the first semester led up to the consideration of the "Ideal Girl".

To those who have consistently attended them, the Sunday meetings have meant more than any other phase of the Y. W. C. A., important as all of its work is.

Men's Glee Club

| JOHN STEEN     | - - - - | Accompanist       | PROF. ROWLAND | - - - - | Director  |

The Glee Club made its first public appearance this year in a sacred concert given in the Stone Church. The success of this first concert augured well for the season. During the semester vacation the club made its annual trip to Morrison's Cove. In spite of the cold weather, they received a warm reception in Williamsburg, New Enterprise, Woodbury, Roaring Springs, and Martinsburg. Four of five programs were sacred, the one at New Enterprise being secular.

For the second time the club entered the State Intercollegiate Contest held in Carnegie Hall, Pittsburgh, February 24. The fifth place awarded to the Juniata singers in this contest does not represent the fine type of work done by the club and critics pronounced their singing of a much higher calibre than the contest scores would indicate. On the same trip, concerts were given in Derry, Johnstown and Ebensburg. The reaction which followed their Pittsburgh appearance handicapped the club in these later concerts; but audiences were enthusiastic in their praise.

The trip east to Lewistown, Ambler, Lebanon, and Philadelphia, ending during the Easter vacation, was also quite successful.

The quartet, besides contributing to the club programs, also gave independent programs, chief among which were those given at Tyrone and Altoona—broadcasting from Gables Store in the latter place.

Girls' Glee Club

The Girls' Glee Club had a somewhat inauspicious start in 1927 due to the fact that very few of its former members remained. Several weeks after practices began, an election was held in which Ethel Shively and Mary Walker were chosen to fill the positions of treasurer and secretary left vacant by Emogene Hanawalt and Marie De Bolt.

The first concert was given in Huntingdon at the Reformed Church and was followed by several others in the churches of the town. Two long trips were made in the spring. The first having as its objective Washington, D. C., with stops in towns of Maryland, and concerts in Waynesboro, Shippensburg, McConnellsburg and Mt. Union. The second was made over Easter vacation during which the club presented programs in Pittsburgh, Greensburg, Mt. Pleasant, Connellsville, Somerset, Sipesville, Windber, and Johnstown.

The Glee Club not only gives the girls an opportunity to learn to sing and to develop an appreciation of good music, but also as it travels about, advertises Juniata in such a manner as to bring students to Juniata to carry on her high ideals.

DEBATE AND DRAMATICS

Men's Debate

Affirmative Team

ROY SHROCK '29
OLIVER WINTERS '28 Captain
CLAUDE FLORY '29
ALFRED CORMAN '30 Alternate

Negative Team

ALGER GEARY '30
ARTHUR FERNER '29
RAYMOND MORRIS '28, Capt and Mgr.
HAROLD HARTZLER '30, Alternate

After a preliminary debate between our two teams broadcast from W. F. B. G. Altoona, the affirmative team captained by Winters went east in February and returned with victories over all three of the schools met: namely, Schuylkill, Muhlenberg and Ursinus. The decision at Schuylkill was responsible for the only vote cast against the Juniata debaters.

The first home debate was between the Juniata affirmative represented by Flory and Shrock and a negative team of two men from Wheaton College (Ill.) This debate was unusual in two respects. It was the first time Juniata has debated a western school and it was also unusual because it was both judged and criticized by Dr. Frazell debate coach of Penn State college. His decision was in favor of Juniata affirmative.

The winning streak of this team ended when they met the Franklin and Marshall team in Huntingdon and the judges gave a 2-1 decision in favor of the latter.

The negative team opened their season by a home debate with Albright, resulting in an unanimous decision in favor of Juniata. At the time of going to press the negative team has also won from Muhlenberg, Haverford, Ursinus, Elizabethtown, Shippensburg, and State College, losing by 2-1 decisions to Rutgers University and Geneva.

The question used in all of these debates was one of particular political interest: "Resolved, That the direct primary system for choosing state and national officers should be abandoned."

The Masquers

PAUL JONES - - - - - President    HELEN KIRK - - - - - Secretary
 NAOMI TROSTLE - - - - - Vice-President    CLAUDE FLORY - - - - - Treasurer

During this year the Masquers have merited and gained more recognition on the Juniata campus than ever before. The first important project of the year was the presentation on the evening of Thanksgiving Day of three one-act plays coached by members of the club.

For the first semester play the club staged Beau Brummel a four act costume play by Clyde Fitch, in the Grand Theatre of Huntingdon. This play scored a big success and the favorable comments it received were a decided tribute to Mrs. Stearns' efficient direction and the ability of the cast. The Masquers' appreciation of Mrs. Stearns' work assumed the form of a Christmas gift presented to her by the club.

This year for the second time the club entered the Pennsylvania State Intercollegiate Dramatics Association contest held at State College February 9. For its entry the club chose a one-act play by A. A. Milne, The Man in The Bowler Hat. Two casts were chosen from the Masquers to prepare this play, Both casts presented it in the college chapel. Student votes decided the players who were to represent the college in the contest.

The meetings of the club have included a few social events. For the practical part of the club programs a study of French was made.

The Men's Student Council, as the executive head of the Men's Student Government Association, composed of representatives from each class who are proportioned numerically according to class seniority, is necessarily one of the important organizations on the campus; and, with its sister organization, it is very significant of the progressive spirit which permeates the entire institution.

Believing that most people will be fairly decent if put to the test and given a fair trial, the policy of the Council has been that Student Government is, essentially, individual self-government. The organization, however, finds necessity for its existence in the interpretation of certain ethical principles, and in the aiding of some few students to a clearer comprehension of them. It must needs function also, in rare cases, in the punishment of deliberate disregard for right and the rights of others, but it has a higher and more important duty. This duty is in accordance with the observation of some forgotten sage that, aside from a few unchallenged principles of morality and ethics, the rules of a government must be the crystalized sentiments of the governed. The Council has found that it is sometimes very difficult to get this crystalization of opinion, especially from a college student group, but it is believed that in this second year of the New Era, great progress has been made in the co-operation of the Council and the Student Body. It is hoped that this will ultimately lead to the adoption of a complete Honor System at Juniata.

Women's Student Council

ELIZABETH GASSERT - - - Vice-President JOSEPHINE FLEMING - - - - Secretary

"To strive for the betterment of social conditions at Juniata and to provide in every possible way for the maintenance of a high standard of student morale" is the purpose of the Women's Student Council at Juniata College. With this broad program as a guide, the council works for the establishment of such concrete or abstract evidences of progress as appear to be of most vital importance at the time.

The Women's Student Government, starting from inauspicious beginnings in 1922, has grown through many hardships to a full justification of its existence. Composed of members of all four classes this council has tried to be more representative of those classes—not a governing body for the students but a medium thru which the students may govern themselves.

Two objectives faced the New Era and they have been partially realized. The realization of the first of these objectives was the establishment of the Senior-Junior Committee during the first semester of last year. This committee has charge of the enforcement of all Freshman regulations for women and the punishment which results from the breaking of these restrictions. The Committee is under the supervision of the Council.

The second objective has only been partially realized and that has been in theory, at least, among the women. This was the establishment of a complete Honor System at Juniata. Hall restrictions have been abandoned and with coöperation on the part of every student the victory will be won.

The motto which has guided the Women's Student Council for the year is "Play Fair".

The Tribunal, composed of Seniors and Juniors, was instituted in the fall of 1924 as a subsidiary body of the Men's Student Council in order to relieve that assembly of its police duties in relation to the embryonic Freshmen. Its ten active members are invested with power to enforce "customs", Freshman regulations which are now a reality at Juniata. They form a sort of police force always ready to seize and punish all offenders with relentless swiftness. There is a strong bond of coöperation between the Tribunal and the Council. Three members of the Council are always present at the meetings of the Tribunal and "vice-versa". No action is taken and no penalties are inflicted by the Tribunal without the consent of the Council President.

During the past year the Tribunal has been unusually active and efficient. Under the able leadership of Walter Neff, its aim has been to be fair and just at all times. Although its early history was checkered and somewhat doubtful, it has now succeeded in establishing itself as an indispensable servitor of the institution. It has lightened the burden of the Student Council; it has fostered and built up a spirit of friendly rivalry between the Sophomores and the Freshmen, by conducting inter-class contests; it has supervised the activities of one of the largest classes that has ever entered J. C. with a marked degree of skill and success; and above all it has helped the Freshmen through the most difficult period of their college life and taught them to regard discipline with a spirit of true sportsmanship.

The women of Juniata College have risen in the past two years to a position of unquestioned activity. It is their purpose to make co-education at Juniata continue its life in a blaze of glory. The Senior-Junior Committee is a body which assists the Women's Student Council in enforcing Freshman regulations. This organization of the co-eds may be compared to the Men's Tribunal.

With the second year of its existence the committee has proven itself most successful. It obtains its power from the Council and relieves said body of many small matters, thus leaving it free to attend to bigger problems.

During the first semester every Freshman girl is better acquainted with this body than any other on the campus as the committee exacts punishments for infringements of the regulations. These punishments are sometimes rather severe but never unjust. The body has been an aid to the Freshman women in piloting them through the most difficult period of their college life. It has taught them to have regard for discipline and instilled in them a Juniata spirit of true sportsmanship.

It has been the policy of every member of the committee not only to fulfill her position in the seat of judgment but also to help every Freshman girl to become adjusted to Juniata routine. The only prediction for this body is that the future will establish it more firmly as a successful student organization.

May Day

May Day, as observed May 24, 1927, preserved all the traditional color and beauty of the fete usually held at Juniata in a somewhat novel way. The ceremony was in the form of a Greek pageant, in which the first scene portrayed the abduction of Prosperpina; with Alma Logan as Prosperpina, Edith Hartman as Ceres, and Haven Williams as Pluto. The stately pantomime and clever interpretation of the Greek maidens elicited much favorable comment.

The second scene depicted the world under the curse of coldness while snowballs frolicked before the eyes of motionless winter. Ruth Turner as the North Wind was featured in this episode.

Earth was finally released from the sway of winter while sunshine and gaiety came back with the return of Prosperpina. At this point the procession appeared with Alma Logan as Queen of the May and Edith Hartman as her maid of honor. Their attendants were resplendently clothed in colored robes.

The remainder of the program followed the usual procedure. The Queen of May was crowned by her maid of honor and presented with the symbols of power while the heralds, Telford Blough and Nelson Hanawalt, proclaimed her dominion. Entertainment for the Queen was provided by a flower ballet, solo dancing by Ruth Klepinger and a fencing match. Meanwhile the jester, Evan Hummel, made sport of the proceedings. Following the old English custom, the May-pole was wound and all the performers gathered on the north campus which was the scene of the fete to bid farewell to their audience in the finale "Deep in My Heart."

ATHLETICS

Football Review

COACH SIERSEMA

ASSISTANT COACH OLLER

The 1927 grid season was a veritable revelation to all those interested in Juniata. This season showed that Juniata really could produce a football team of good calibre.

The season was opened on the local battlefield with Drexel offering the opposition. Beery proved himself a "shining light". In this inaugural game the pig-skin wrestlers established a record which was to become famous throughout the season, that of holding like a brick wall on the three yard mark. The score at the final whistle was 0-0.

Amid a sweltering heat the Siersemen traveled to Carlisle where they were trimmed by Dickinson, 8-0. The Blue and Gold warriors conducted themselves nobly and held the opposing team on the three yard mark for downs.

"Red" and his mates suffered another defeat against Temple. The real strength of the opposition accounted for the defeat rather than the weakness of Juniata.

The traditional fight seemed to be lacking when J. C. met Grove City with the result of a victory for our opponents. Score 58-0.

On Alumni Day, Juniata scored its first point of the season against Susquehanna, as a result of a perfect pass by Beery into the waiting arms of "Pint" Williams. A similar pass netted a second touchdown but in the meantime Susquehanna had compiled 13 points and the final score showed S. U. ahead 13-12.

November 5 goes down in the annals of Juniata grid history as the first victory since October 11, 1924. The losing team was Randolph-Macon. Holsinger, West, Stauffer and Beery tallied the touchdowns for Juniata.

The Loyola game was lost 6-0 despite the fact of a fine exhibition of football. In this game Hughes suffered a compound fracture of the leg.

The last game was fought with the P. M. C. Cadets. Score 38-7. This was by no means a walk-away, but the Cadets outplayed us in all departments of the game.

Several injuries were sustained during the season, Holsinger receiving a sprained ankle, Burkert and Beery being the victims of dislocated collar bones.

Coach Siersema is to be highly congratulated on putting the new material into such fine shape in so short a time.

Beery has been elected to captain the 1928 eleven and here's wishing him and his mates a most successful season as a climax of his already brilliant athletic career at Juniata.

The Squad

DAVID DOUGLASS— Captain and Guard

Captain Douglass, a fast, alert and aggressive type of lineman, had few superiors. "Red" had to face a killing schedule and yet his play remained high-class. His brilliant work furnished the Juniata supporters with many thrilling moments.

ALDEN HOLSINGER— Halfback

Alden believes in that old football adage of, "The harder they come the harder they fall". "Holsey" is big and fast and hits the line with lots of force. Even with injuries he was effective in every game he played. Every one predicts big things for him in the future.

CARL WEST— End

West, one of the few men to graduate, completed his second year as one of the fastest ends in Juniata history. "Casey" was a sure tackler, good at smashing and an excellent pass receiver.

RALPH MILLER—
Guard

"Bing" gave something more than his share through the schedule which was hard enough to break down a herd of bison. Although rarely a showy player he was always there. His recovery of a fumble in the Drexel game was a real thrill.

GLENN WILLIAMS—
Quarterback

"Pint" fits the name when it comes to size but he certainly is a whole gallon when it comes to playing football. He is a sure tackler; catching punts and passes are his specialties. He seldom fails to get his man.

THOMAS GORDON—
Fullback

"Tommy" was not able to get started during the first part of the year but soon made it up. Much credit is due him for his work in the backfield. He was especially adept in diagnosing the opponent's plays and was in the game every minute.

WARREN ANGSTADT—
Center

"Red" did not intend to return to school in the fall but the lure of the gridiron was too great so he came back to play center for the team. He was greatly handicapped by his weight but "he fought a good fight".

CHARLES STAUFFER—
Quarterback

Charles, a freshman, was one of the strong, durable types of a backfield man. The experience derived in his initial year should enable him to become an elusive ball carrier.

EDWARD BURKERT—
Tackle

Edward, a Frosh, was a bulwark on the defense and continued to hold his own even when a crippled team was floundering in mid-season. Burkert has the keen football insight which makes a football star.

GEORGE BEERY—
Halfback

"Moon" is an ideal triple threat man and is closely watched by all opponents. He is a hard man to stop and is very efficient when it comes to stopping the opposing backs. "Moon" has made himself conspicuous by his fighting spirit and general all around ability. Much is expected from him as captain of the 1928 team.

DAVID PEWTERBAUGH
Manager

"Dave" was given the toughest assignment on the squad but he faced his task with a smile. All the aches and pains of the entire team found their way into his sympathetic ear and none went unheeded. The schedule for the season was carried out without a break. This was due largely to the efforts of this year's minute manager.

WHITNEY MICHAELS—
Fullback

"Mike" proved to be a smashing back, hard to stop. He was a keen watcher with a deadly tackle ready for any man. His 50 yard run in the Randolph-Macon game was one of the outstanding feats of the season.

RAYMOND WEAVER—
Quarterback

This was Weaver's first year of varsity football and he proved to be a big aid to the team. He is a good punter and passer and can carry the ball when needed. He should be a bright light for J. C. next year.

LLOYD HUGHES—
Halfback

One of the outstanding athletes of the Freshman contribution to football was "Cornie". He has what it takes to be a football player and knows how to put it into practice.

WILLIAM JAMISON—
Center

"Bill" came to Juniata from Thiel and brought with him his football ability. He fitted in well at center, proved a good passer and a hard fighter. Many of the gains were made through holes made by him. Much is expected from him in the future.

MERVIN PENTZ—

End

"Merv" weighs about 175 pounds and has plenty of speed and fight. He was not able to play the early part of the season due to too many studies but soon made up for it when he finally got started and gave a good account of himself in action.

DANIEL SPENGLER—

Tackle

"Dannie", above 6 feet, weighing above 195, proved to be one of the best first year men to be sent into action since football was inaugurated at J. C. He was a marvel at recovering fumbles.

WILBUR STAYER

Tackle

"Bill", handicapped by a leg injury received in the Drexel game, rose above the handicap the latter part of the season and played great football. Coach Siersema gives "Bill" much credit for his team's defense.

Basketball Review

After closing a successful football season, Coach Siersema issued the call for Juniata's best sport—basketball. Capt. Weller, Eisenhart, Holsinger, Beery and Douglass were back from the previous year and a wealth of new material seemed to be at hand.

The initial whistle was blown on December 8, with Tyrone Y. M. C. A. offering the opposition. The Juniata cagers were easy victors. Score 40-24.

The second encounter proved to be a thriller. Penn Central, a semi-pro team from Altoona, set the "Wellerites" down after a hard contest to a 34-28 defeat.

The Christmas recess ended and the Siersemen were handed a defeat in the tilt with Lebanon Valley at Annville. Score 32-43. Albright College was met and conquered in a fast and close game, the score being 34-30.

On January 10 the first inter-collegiate game of the season took place on the home floor with Lebanon Valley offering the opposition. Holdinger played a formidable game both offensively and defensively with the result of a victory for Juniata, the score at the final whistle being 39-22.

Little will be said of the annual tilt with Penn State for every Indian was badly off form. Score 18-53.

One of the fastest contests took place with Gettysburg on the local floor. Eisenhart distinguished himself by scoring all the Juniata counters in the first half. The opponents, however eked out a 29-30 victory.

Thiel was downed on the home court with Eisenhart scoring 12 points, Beery and Weller following close with 11 each. Final score 44-25. The Junior Varsity was given a chance to show its wares by counting up the double deckers.

A fast game with Temple took place on the local court with the visitors coming out on top with a 32-47 victory.

On the annual trip to Susquehanna and Bucknell the "Wellerites" were surprised to find Susquehanna playing a high calibre of basketball. With only a minute to play, Susquehanna leading by one point, Andrews and Steele were substituted with the result that Juniata forged ahead and won by a 32-29 score.

The Indian cagemen succumbed to a 25-33 defeat with the Bucknellians in the fastest game of the season on the Tuscan floor.

Susquehanna was again met, this time to be completely trounced on the local court.

The Indians conquered the P. M. C. Cadets in fine style with a 38-32 score. Captain Weller starred, gaining a total of 16 points.

The Blue and Gold once again bowed to the Temple quintet with a count of 42-32.

The Siersemen found the opposition of the Drexel aggregation too strong and were compelled to leave the Sesqui City on the short end of a 43-32 score.

The "Wellerites" took the measure of the very formidable Alumni five, made up of Livengood, Grove, "Mike" Snyder, Oller and Schlosser. The Varsity's superior stamina told in the end of the fray and the result was a 26-33 victory.

March 2 found the Siersemen in Altoona to perform for the city folks against the strong Bucknell cagers. Weller was greeted in fine style by his home people and showed them the high calibre of ball which he is capable of playing. J. C. was doomed to another defeat—46-30.

As a climax to the season the Varsity took the University of Baltimore into camp on Home-Coming Day with a score of 39-29. In this game Captain Weller and Michaels made their final appearance on the court for Juniata. This season the club broke even, winning nine and losing nine games. Next year we are confident of an even more successful season with the wealth of substitute material at hand.

MERRILL HENRY—Manager

Manager Henry deserves much commendation for the excellent and well-balanced schedule which he arranged. As manager he saw to it that everything, down to the slightest detail, went off in ship-shape fashion, and much of the success of the season is due to his tireless efforts.

COACH SIERSEMA

Coach Siersema comes to Juniata from William and Mary College and every Juniata student is quite willing to admit that Juniata got the best of the bargain. Athletics at Juniata have taken on new life and never before in the history of the school has so much activity along athletic lines been manifested as under his guiding hand. Our football team won their first victory in three years. Basketball was a success, not to mention the activity that takes place in the gymnasium from dawn to dusk daily. All of this we attribute to our new coach. We have started to dream of big things in athletics and at the present rate the realization of these dreams is not far in the distance.

EARL WELLER—
Captain-Forward

Captain "Heck" has played four years for the Blue and Gold and has established himself as one of the best Indian cage men. His fast floor play and sensational shooting has been an inspiration to the team and a delight to the fans.

DAVID DOUGLASS—
Guard

"Red's" consistent playing was a big factor in the team's success. His versatile passing helped bring results in the scoring column.

WILLIAM EISENHART—
Forward

"Bill's" ever-ready shooting eye has been a big cog in the Indians' scoring machine. Shooting impossible shots is his specialty. "Bill" and his hidden ball play always go over big.

GEORGE BEERY—
Guard

"Moon's" close guarding and fast floor work were features of the Indians' games. He covers a lot of territory and manages to get into almost every play.

ALDEN HOLSINGER—
Center

"Holsy" plays a hard game every minute of the fray and is always there to get the tip-off. His fast dribble and deceptive pass have contributed much to the team's success. Although handicapped by injuries he played a stellar game.

WHITNEY MICHAELS—
Guard

"Mike" was a tower of strength at guard. He played the court well and is credited with many valuable assists. Although a new man at Juniata he is not a new hand at the game, as his game indicates.

BERNARD ANDREWS—

Forward

Though a Freshman, "Hook" was an able understudy of the forwards of the season. He tosses them from the port side and is a dead shot under the basket.

Baseball Review of 1927 Season

The statement has been made that when spring comes young men's fancies lightly turn to baseball. This can surely be verified by the spirit shown at Juniata. When the call for baseball was issued early in March about 50 candidates declared their intention of coming out for the team and from that day on hard, earnest practice ensued.

A goodly number of the 1926 squad were back and each craved action. Captain West, Weimer, Weller, Beery, McClain, Brumbaugh, Miller and Shaeffer were the returned lettermen, together with a number of promising newcomers. Hunter, Bolger, "Casey" West, Weaver, Connor and "Tim" Snyder gave Coach Aines an abundance of new material with which to build a formidable aggregation.

The first game was played with Lebanon Valley offering the opposition on their own field. The "Redskins" hopped off on the wrong foot and were kalsomined by the score of 7-0. Weimer was the outstanding star of the day.

April 23 found the Indians at Penn State. For five consecutive years J. C. baseball teams have gone down to defeat at the hands of the "Lions". A new era had started and this was upheld, for Juniata came home from this game victor of the contest, winning to the tune of a 4-1 score. Bolger was on the mound for the Juniataians and gave one of the finest exhibitions ever displayed by a Juniata "hurler". Snyder and Weller scintillated afield, this pair matriculating in three lightning fast double-plays, each coming at crucial parts of the combat. Shaeffer tallied the first run in the fourth inning.

The first home game of the season was played with Ursinus College. The Indians took the measure of the "Bears" 4-2.

The wig-wam builders registered a victory in a slugging fest against Susquehanna at Selinsgrove.

St. Vincent's College was met and the contest resulted in a defeat for the Ainesmen. The game was played on a water-soaked field and the Juniata boys were ducked 7-4. The West Virginia University game was lost 4-3. Here Weller received a sprained ankle. The second game played against the "mountain" nine was an old-fashioned slug-fest with J. C. on the small end of the fray. Weimer and Hunter slammed three-base hits and Beery and Shaeffer garnered a double each. Final count—12-4.

The Penn Central game was lost, 4-3. "Jim" Hunter by his mound work demonstrated real pitching ability. Weaver surprised the crowd by lacing one of Streight's offerings, scoring Juniata's first run of the game.

Another defeat was suffered at the hands of the strong Villanova combination. They boasted one of the best teams of the East and proved their reputation by coming out on the long end, winning 10-4.

Juniata broke into the win column when the "Little Crusaders" were scalped on the home lot, 15-5. This was the first victory in six attempts.

The Indians bit the dust when they met Villanova. Score 7-0. "Lefty" Mansberger proved his prowess in the P. M. C. game. Twelve men went out by the strike route. Weimer led the fray with three hits. Final score 12-1.

On Commencement Day the Indians lost to Lebanon Valley in a loosely played exhibition. Beery was the outstanding star for the Blue and Gold. Score 4-1.

Thus ended the season for the Juniata "diamond cutters" with only the glorious Penn State victory to be remembered as a sample of the 1927 squad's ability in the great national pastime.

THE SQUAD

JAMES G. STEWART, JR.
Baseball Manager

The baseball team was very fortunate in having a manager of "Jimmie's" calibre. Although handicapped by a late start he arranged a very good schedule and carried on the business of the team with great efficiency. "Jim's" unequalled humor made him very popular with the squad.

WILLIAM WEST—
Center Field-Captain

To Captain West goes the honor of leading the first J. C. baseball team that has ever beaten Penn State on their own field. "Bill" was the backbone of the outfield. He was fast, steady, and a pace setter for his team-mates not only in fielding but in batting as well. "Bill" filled a varsity place for four years and his place will be hard to fill.

CLOYD MANSBERGER—
Pitcher-Right Field

"Lefty" was a victim of circumstance during the greater part of the season. Bothered with a side ailment, he was unable to take his turn on the "hill", however, he did some outfielding that was very creditable.

EARL WELLER—

Short Stop

"Heck" put the punch and fire into the infield. He is one of the classiest guardians of the short stop territory in the history of the school. A twisted ankle kept Earl on the side-lines during the latter part of the season.

CARL WEST—

First Base

The "Ainesmen" were strongly pressed for an able first sacker. "Casey's" display of fighting spirit and his ability to fit in where needed landed him a varsity job.

HUBERT SNYDER—

Coming back after a year's lay-off, "Tim" was a vastly improved player. He covered the initial 'hassock' ably and was a towering figure on the offense.

RALPH MILLER—

Catcher

"Bing" crashed in and gave a remarkable exhibition of "back-stopping". His clever handling of pitching coupled with his arm of steel aided materially in keeping opponents away from the scoring pentagon.

JOSEPH CONNOR—

First Base

"Joe" dropped in from Elizabethtown and decided he could play baseball. He lived up to this 'hunch' by caring for the first base job in fine fashion and prodding the "apple" when hits meant runs.

Track Review

COACHES STAYER AND ENGLE

Track at Juniata increased in importance to such an extent during the 1927 season that it has automatically placed itself upon an equal basis with the other major sports. The 1927 track team established the record of being the first team to represent J. C. through an undefeated season.

The Juniata spikemen started training while winter was still with us, working out on the "loop" and "hill" courses as well as in the gym.

Captain Trout, our iron man, made for Juniata a worthy leader. If Trout's work upon the track was not an inspiration to the entire squad it should have been.

The first meet of the season was the Penn Relays held at Philadelphia on April 29-30. The team finally chosen to represent Juniata was Captain Trout, Apel, Leiter and Bower. Amid a down-pour of rain, ankle-deep mud, and the cheers of the excited throng in the stadium, our "four-horsemen" trotted to victory. For this great event the team received a handsome bronze trophy and each individual a gold wrist watch with "Penn Relays—1927" in place of the cardinal numbers.

In the inter-class meet, the Seniors who had won the three previous years once more carried off the colors with the Freshmen trailing closely behind. It was a great day and the events went smoothly. Trout, Leiter, and Wiest starred for the seniors while Holsinger starred for the Frosh. Rearick, a Soph, set a new school record in the pole-vault by clearing the bar at 11 feet. The Seniors, having won this event for four consecutive years, presented the college a fine trophy for the promotion of intra-mural athletic activities.

The Indian spikemen won a glorious victory over the well-equipped Dickinson aggregation, scoring a 73-52 victory. Leiter was the outstanding star, establishing a new record in the 880 yard run. Trout, Holsinger, Pentz, are also worthy of mention. Holsinger scoring 16 points for the day. Bowers came through in the broad jump and Watters won the one-mile run.

The Central Pennsylvania Inter-collegiates held at Muhlenburg brought to us the Class B trophy as our permanent possession, having won it for three consecutive years. Holsinger was the high scorer of the entire Class B.

Leiter and Pentz entered the Middle Atlantic States' Inter-collegiates held at Schenectady, N. Y. These two athletes are to be congratulated on garnering  $3\frac{1}{2}$  points for Juniata, Pentz scoring  $1\frac{1}{2}$  by finishing fourth in the high jump and Leiter finishing fourth in the mile run.

Last of all Juniata spikemen met Susquehanna at Selinsgrove with an undefeated season behind them. Susquehanna was easy for the Juniata squad with the result of a 79-47 victory. Trout starred, scoring 14 points. Wiest came through in beautiful style carrying off honors in the mile run, thus winning his letter after four years of hard work. In this meet Trout, who had been a consistent tower of strength to the Indian trackmen since 1924, Leiter, DeBolt, Grove, Giles and Wiest made their final appearance for the Blue and Gold.

It was only by the aid of the able coaches, Stayer and Engle, and the very efficient management of "Tom" Rosenberger that J. C. was able to put upon the field such a formidable and successful aggregation of spikemen.

RELAY TEAM

The relay team, composed of Captain Trout, Leiter, Bowers and Apel, went to the annual Penn Relays at Philadelphia on April 30th and won their event in time which was several seconds faster than that made by Dickinson College, who won Class B Middle Atlantic relay event. This was the first time in Juniata's track history that a college relay team won it's event at the Penn Relays. The reasons for the victory lay in the fact that the members of the team were all exceptionally fast in the quarter mile and that Captain Trout as anchor man, ran on a muddy track one of the fastest quarter miles of his career. The prizes were—for the men a wrist watch apiece, for the college a large bronze plaque.

Tennis

The first match of the season, a home game with the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy was a victory for us with a score of 5-1. Both doubles and three singles were won by us, which was a remarkable showing for a team without a coach against a veteran team.

The following week Franklin and Marshall College were the invaders. The match did not get started until late and this, together with the fact that all matches were close, accounted for the lateness of the doubles. They ended at seven o'clock with a score of 3-3. During this match Flory rectified his defeat of the previous week by defeating Faegley, a former collegiate star. The first match away was with Dickinson at Carlisle on the tenth. The matches started at three o'clock but only a few sets were played due to rain.

The following day a return match was played with Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster. Hard luck seemed to be with our men and prevented them from doing their best. The result was a 4-2 victory for F. and M. On the thirteenth the team played Moravian College at Bethlehem. Angstadt won the only point for Juniata by defeating Hoffman. The result was Moravians 5, Juniata 1.

The next match was with Bucknell at Huntingdon. This was an all around victory for Bucknell, the final score being 6-0.

The last two clashes were with Susquehanna University and again with Bucknell. The first of these resulted in a 6-0 victory for Juniata. Angstadt, Flory, Caulton and Harley proved that Juniata is superior to Susquehanna in tennis at least.

The final match was somewhat of a comeback so far as Bucknell is concerned. All matches were closely combated, but Juniata won only the doubles, Angstadt and Caulton as first doubles, and Flory and Harley as the second pair.

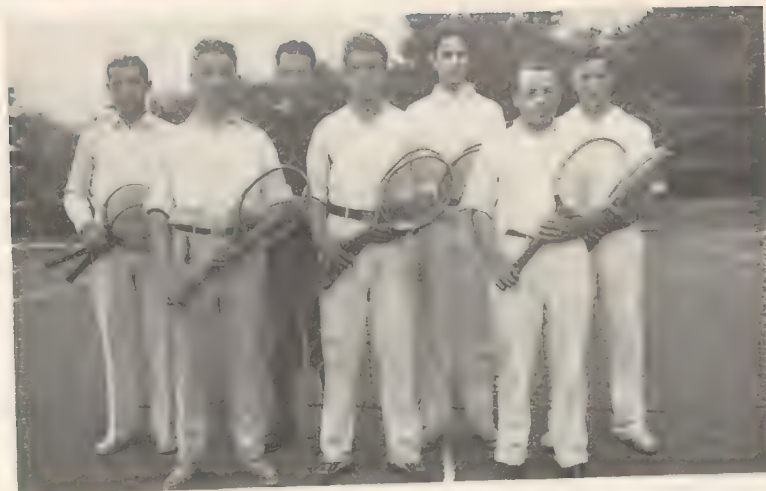

The 1928 season we look forward to with great expectations because John Ellis will be with us again. Angstadt has returned with two cups which represent first place in both doubles and singles at Central Pennsylvania State Championships, 1927. These together with Caulton, Flory, and Harley should form the nucleus of a winning team.

THE SQUAD

R. J. HARLEY—

The only veteran member of this year's team, having played the previous year. He was manager and with the assistance of "Red" made a very able substitute for John Ellis who was not out because of sickness.

C. O. CAULTON—

"Cy" is another of the long list of J. C.-made tennis men, coming to us with no knowledge whatever of the game. He made the team after two years' training.

A. W. ANGSTADT—

"Red", with his distinctive tennis personality, came to us from the "Dutch" Country to play number one man for Juniata. He holds the Central Pennsylvania championships for both singles and doubles.

C. R. FLORY—

In tennis, as in debate, "Shucks" plays the game well. He came to Juniata with very little equipment in the form of a strong game but developed rapidly so that in two years of extensive practice he was able to hold down second man on the team.

Co-ed Basketball Review

The Co-ed basketball season was one of the most successful ever enjoyed by Juniata girls. Under the direction of Miss Bain an all-star team was developed. Material was plentiful and competition for varsity positions was keen. A number of last year's varsity reported for practice as well as a wealth of new material. The six finally chosen were "Peg" Evans, "Lou" Musselman, both new to Juniata, as forwards, Orlena Free and Marian Neff as guards, "Gerry" Laing, center, and Rosanna Garner, side-center. Dugan, Hower and Grove made up the first nine. Laing was elected captain. Garner held the position of manager.

The season opened with a victory over the Penn Central girl's team of Altoona on the local floor. The opponents offered strong opposition but our lassies showed their mettle by a final score 15-6.

The first game of the Eastern trip was played with Ursinus College at Collegeville and the result was a 33-16 victory for Ursinus. The defeat was not a true criterion of the strength of the Bainites, however. Evans suffered a sprained ankle. The feature of the game was the high passing of Ursinus. Drexel Institute was met at Philadelphia and brought down to defeat by the score 27-18, Evans tossing 6 field goals in the 4th quarter.

The Lebanon Valley squad was met on the home floor and defeated 33-21.

The game played with the Gettysburg co-eds on Alumni Home-Coming Day resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Bainites. Final score 45-10. The "subs" were given a chance to show their wares.

One game is yet scheduled to be played. The Juniata co-eds will meet Lebanon Valley at Annville, March 17.

In addition to the varsity games, interclass contests were held which gave further opportunity for experience to both the varsity and other candidates.

Letters were awarded to Evans, Musselman and Free.

The entire team merits commendation for its fine spirit and efficient playing.

EVELYN HOWER—
Forward

A surprise awaited both Evelyn and spectators when this Freshman girl decided to play basketball. At any position she was a battle to face. In this sub the Indian Co-eds had a barrack of defence and resourcefulness.

"GERRY" LAING—
Captain—Center

A year's absence on account of injuries accentuated "Gerry's" fighting spirit and in no degree decreased her torrid device for good luck. Finally Fate's "13" rounded out into a four-leaf clover and "Gerry" wavered on its stem. As pilot of a winning team she held the usual prowess of a captaincy.

MARY GROVE—
Guard

A "south-paw" from the local circles who landed a varsity berth in her Freshmen year. Although getting a late start this season this ex-captain fought hard and was no slow hindrance to small or large opposers.

MARION NEFF—
Guard

"Patsy" lost her giggle as soon as the first whistle blew, and hunted vigorously for it throughout the game. Her best was in every play, her interest in every practice and her effort at the top of the scale.

ORLENA FREE—
Guard

"Or" tried for several seasons and this year easily won her "J". Faithful at practice and strict in training, she had all sorts of endurance and fight. Her last year in school should be her best.

"LOU" MUSSELMAN—
Forward

Consistency was "Lou's" trademark. Her playing was not the fast, unsteady kind, but stalwart and promising. Accuracy in banking shots and a knack in judging floor distance gave her inevitable advantages.

ROSANNA GARNER—

Side Center

"Zinnie" was perfectly at home and happy when she was on her toes or even sometimes "over the line". No floor was too big for "Zinnie". Fast, spectacular and energetic throws and catches received for "Zinnie" many a cheer from rooting fans. Her last year in school was a starring year on the court.

LOIS DUGAN—

Forward

"Chatsie" completed her fourth year of basketball at Juniata in the flying quarters of the Lebanon Valley game. Her college career was a series of changes in position she played them all well.

"PEG" EVANS—

Forward

To the hardest fighter and fastest floor worker of the aggregation was glued the name "Peg" or when excited "Peggity". "Peg's" shots were sure, her team-work creditable and her speed a challenge. A few years with college training should produce her as an imperialist in the athletic world.

Fencing

Parry quart, extend—Lunge. And out shot a number of shining foils from the sides of as many enthusiastic co-eds. Orders such as these, accompanied by the clash of steel, are now familiar sounds on Juniata's campus; and this is how it came about.

On a certain day in March the annual spring physical education exhibition was held in the college gymnasium, during the course of the program a fencing match was staged between Coach Siersema and Professor Oller. The contest aroused such interest on the part of a few Freshman girls that some days later inquiry was made about the possibility of having some lessons in the art. Arrangements for equipment and practices were made and since that time every week has witnessed some fencing. More students became intrested until the group numbered twelve. Foils, guards, and masks made their appearance in rapid succession to the delight of the fencers and the amusement of their friends.

Coach Siersema is in charge of the group. He allowed no combat whatever between "his musketeers" until they were well grounded in the fundamental positions, attacks and parries; for weeks monotonous training took a bit of the zest from the first fascinating lessons. Then combat was begun and all the spice of the art returned. As yet the fencers are only beginners but each is anxious to continue the work.

Fencing and sword-play are old arts shrouded with the tradition of the Middle Ages. In Europe at the present time fencing is as popular among women as among men; and in this country its popularity is rapidly increasing. The more prominent schools include it in their curricula and it is expected that American women will soon be entering the international matches.

Whether fencing will remain a permanent part of Juniata's activities remains to be seen, but with the great avidity for learning the technicalities of the sport shown by the girls of the school there comes a hope that it will someday be a recognized part of athletic endeavor here.

Soccer Review

One of the landmarks of the New Era and one which is helping to build the Greater Juniata is the advent of a more complete athletic program for women. This has been made possible in 1927-28 by having a physical education director in the person of Miss Florence Bain. Miss Bain came to Juniata fully qualified by her previous experience to direct co-ed athletics. The first project of her athletic program was interclass soccer.

Shortly after school began the squads were marshalled to practice. Chief among the difficulties which presented themselves was the dearth of material. This was especially true of the Senior class and they were forced to draft several faculty women into service.

During the months of October and November a total of twelve games was played, each of the four class teams having six contests. The contests being played off resulted in five victories for both the Sophomores and Frosh. The Championship game was played November 23, the result of which was a victory for the Frosh, score 2-1. In recognition of this success the Women's "J" Club presented the Freshman team with a banner which will be a trophy for the teams contesting hereafter.

Enthusiasm ran high. Several girls were incapacitated but to most of them the scratches and scars were only greater incentives.

It is hoped that Soccer will receive the interest and support of more co-eds next year. It affords not only an opportunity for the girls to win 100 points toward their letters but great physical benefits are to be derived from such an outdoor sport.

Men's Varsity "J" Club

CARL R. WEST, President

DAVID DOUGLASS, Vice-President

EARL S. WELLER, Secretary-Treasurer

The purpose of this club since its founding in 1926 has been to encourage and promote better athletics at Juniata, to improve our athletic relationships with other colleges and universities, and to uphold the three virtues for which the club stands; namely, Loyalty, Friendship, and Fair play. All men who have earned the Chineal block "J" in one or more major sports are eligible for membership, and they now number about forty-five.

The club's efforts this year have included being host to the many former Juniata men and women on Home-Coming day, and the annual "J" club banquet held at the Leister House, at which M. G. Brumbaugh was the main speaker. It was at the banquet that Dr. Brumbaugh promised the club a private room in the new dormitory.

Due to the untiring efforts of the president, Carl West, the club has advanced rapidly, and no doubt its chief ambition, a Varsity house for athletes and visiting athletes, will be someday realized.

Women's "J" Club

THELMA CUNNINGHAM, President

LOIS DUGAN, Vice-President

ROSANNA GARNER, Secretary-Treasurer

In the spring of 1926 the need for definite direction of women's athletics resulted in the formation of the "J" Club. The charter members were those who had won the "J" in basketball and those who won it in hiking were shortly admitted. However, under the direction of Coach Bain, and with the approval of the club, "J's" will now be awarded to girls who earn 1000 points, or the equivalent of two class numerals. It is necessary to make two interclass teams, in soccer, baseball, basketball, or hike 300 miles, besides earning 200 points through participation in other athletics.

Through its activity on Alumni Home Coming day, and the aid given to improvement of athletics, the club has proved its right to be classed as a live campus organization. The fight has been a hard one but the wearers of the "J" will continue to fight until they gain their full merited recognition.

*"A hundred thousand years from now,
When we are gone, you will recall
A million things we used to say,
Which we have never said at all."*

SEPTEMBER

- 12th—When men, and women leave home!
13th—New faces and new friends, not to mention countless happy reunions.
14th—"Prexy" welcomes his babies, new and old, and puts us all to work.
16th—Freshmen all decide to buy new hats.
17th—The "Y" party in the gym proves to be a genuine success for a number of upper class-men.
21st—We begin to develop a speaking acquaintance with some new books.
24th—Juniata holds the husky engineers from Drexel to a scoreless tie. The 90 degree sun spares no one.

OCTOBER

- 4th—Mrs. Roberts, patron saint of advanced English classes, entertains her students at High Point. Such "eats"! Such moonlight!
8th—Temple gives Juniata the first genuine drubbing of the year.
17th—Plans for Mountain Day announced. Many students attend the burial services for Emogene Hanawalt.
18th—Rain necessitates postponement of Mountain Day. "Prexy" says it came because he neglected to announce that Dr. Tobias Timothy Theophilus Myers would officiate, as usual, at the coffee pot.
19th—Prexy switches the blame to Uncle Perry for continued rain. A fish story, brought from the wilds of Maine, is used to help brighten the chapel service.
20th—The sun shines again. Every little sunbeam is beaming his or her brightest.
21st—First soccer game at J. C. Frosh and Soph maidens battle like Amazons to "tieless" score 2-2.
22nd—The Faculty gently eases us into proper humor for six weeks grades by giving their usual delightful reception in a beautifully decorated gymnasium.
24th—Seniors beat Juniors at soccer by 2-1 score. Myrtle Walker's substantial breadth makes it virtually impossible for Juniors to get the ball between the goal posts.

- 26th—Mountain Day is enjoyed under a cloudless Indian Summer sky. God certainly must have smiled with pleasure when he finished Spruce Creek and the great hills that tower upward from its banks.
- 27th—"Beat Susquehanna" signs appear over all the campus. The pep at the Pep meeting almost wrecked old Founders.
- 28th—Juniata's first all-club night of the year. Ober Holsinger as "Charley" was the hero of the evening.
- 29th—Day of Days! No Classes! Big Parade! Real football! Friends who were strangers! Doughnuts and cider!
- 30th—Another one of those heavenly days! That is, it looked heavenly back of Flagpole, or so they tell us.
- 31st—Dr. Robert E. Speer in "Trusteeship" gave us the address of a life time.

NOVEMBER

- 2nd—Postmen lose popularity. First six weeks reports are greeted with smiles or frowns, mainly the latter.
- 3rd—Alfarata proofs returned to the subjects. Some of us saw how we really look.
- 4th—Hardy Engle, who scored Juniata's first touch down, told a "ripping" good story at the chapel pep-meeting.
- 5th—Blue and Gold sweeps to victory over Randolph-Macon 24-7 for first triumph in three years. The tower bell tolls the news to the world. Open night! Lets have more.
- 8th—Dr. Gryce helps inaugurate the winter season with a story of mission work on the far rim of civilization beneath the Artic pole.
- 10th—Pres. Buswell of Wheaton College brings us a fine message. One never refers to the site of W. C. as college hill. Wheaton is so flat that it's almost saucer shaped.
- 13th—Bravely fighting, the team is beaten by Loyola in the last quarter, 6-0.
- 14th—Dr. Wellburn, whose rapid speech and quick, keen wit were quite at odds with our ideas of Englishmen, is acclaimed the most popular chapel speaker of the year.
- 15th—Prexy makes a birdie 3 on ninth hole at Huntingdon Country Club.
- 16th—Dr. Wellburn speaks again to a delighted family.
- 17th—The 48 hour debate with Dickinson, using split teams on both ends of the dual, was a subject of keen forensic interest.
- 19th—P. M. C. runs over the J. C. gridders 38-7 at Chester in the years final. We look to brighter years in the future.
- 22nd—"Mollusc." Thank you, Mrs. Roberts.
- 24th—Thanksgiving day, with its turkey, Masquers production of the "Poor Nut," and suspension of freshmen regulations.
- 25th—Most of the patients begin to show signs of recovery.
- 26th—Student recital is delightfully rendered.

DECEMBER

- 2nd—Chaplain Shrum of the "Mayflower" introduces new style of garb to Stone Church pulpit.
3rd—King Winter ascends his throne and rests his feet on the great stool of a snow covered earth.
5th—Raymie Morris' fertile brain begins thinking up ordeals for the new "J" Club members.
8th—"Red" Douglas put on Temples all opponent eleven. The old men who belong to the Young Men's Christian Association of Tyrone were defeated in the first basketball game of the seasons 40-24.
9th—"Prexy" does not tell a fish story.
11th—Men's Glee Club, in new panties etc., gives first program of years in the Stone Church.
15th—Final '27 Juniatian bears season's greetings. Beau Brummel impresses as best dramatic production ever presented at Juniata.
21 st—The same to you!
25th—Juniatians severally entertain Santa Claus.

JANUARY

- 1 st—1928—Leap year! Men beware!
3rd—How it hurts!
5th—Disturbing influence of vacation just past us replaced by spring fever.
6th—Albright defeated for second time in J. C. history.
12th—Diehm talking contest. As was expected, a woman won.
13th—Friday. Scientists say a Friday 13th occurs in a leap year only once every 3,000,000,000 years. Even the personnel of the J. C. faculty will probably be changed before it happens again.
14th—Debaters say eating at Geary's after broadcasting is more fun than talking through the microphone.
15th—Girl's Glee Club presents initial program at Reformed Church.
16th—Dr. Ellis concludes a week's visit to Manchester College. His Psychology class at Juniata enjoyed his visit very much.
18th—Gov. Fisher promises to address J. C.'s graduation in June.
20th—Exams! Nough said.
22nd—Prof. Dubbel fills local pulpit creditably.
28th—4:00 P. M. social restrictions for Freshmen end.
31st—Co-eds leap year party proves biggest success ever. J. C. girls certainly can pull in the men if the occasion presents itself.

FEBRUARY

- 3rd—New dorm occupied by Glen Reiman and Roy Schrock.
- 4th—Juniata sponsors first Central Pennsylvania Education Conference. Indians spear Crusaders for eighth straight 40-17.
- 7th—"The Man in the Bowler Hat" selected by Masquers for state contest.
- 11th—J. C.'s basketteering squaws win from Drexel but lose to Ursinus.
- 12th—Rev. A. B. Miller begins second week of evangelistic services in Stone Church.
- 14th—Men's Glee Club wins fifth place in State contest at Pittsburgh. Five colleges competed.
- 24th—Men's affirmative debating team returns from teaching, Schuylkill, Muhlenberg, and Ursinus the tricks of the trade.
- 28th—Dr. N. J. Brumbaugh lectures to Altoona Music Club on Wind Instruments. He is eminently qualified.
- 29th—Wheaton College Debaters from "Red" Grange's town visit Juniata but only to feel the sting of defeat.

MARCH

- 1st—Affirmative debaters sustain first defeat of year.
- 7th—Coach Siersema invites his big league baseball aspirants to go South to the gymnasium.
- 8th—Main corridor of Founder's Hall takes on appearance of an art gallery.
- 9th—Masquers present "The Man in the Bowler Hat" at State College in their second participation in the Intercollegiate Dramatic contest.
- 12th—Negative debaters make it two straight with a victory over Muhlenberg.
- 15th—Alfarata says goodbye, leaving for a so-journ at Canton. Sandy is broken hearted and leaves on a week's debate trip in search of consolation.
- 19th—Affirmative orators close season by taking measure of their brothers from our sister college (Elizabethtown). The same night the traveling negative team won the other end of the dual at Elizabethtown.
- 20th—George Lowell Detweiler after seven years at Juniata gives his Senior Recital. To sing like George it would be worth studying seven years.
- 22nd—Negative debate team returns, having won four out of five. Juniata's most successful debate season closes. Won 11 out of 14.
- 23rd—"Mr. Pim" prepares to pass by.
- 24th—All-Club-Night furnishes fine entertainment.

APRIL

- 4th—Spring recess begins.
- 11th—We again return to school for much needed sleep.
- 17th—The fifty second year of Juniata's history is fittingly celebrated.

MAY

Class assignments still give students something to think about when they are not busy with baseball, tennis and track.

JUNE

- 3rd—We prepare to leave. Trunks are packed. Good byes are given and so far into the night.
- 4th—1928 goes out!

JUNIATA COLLEGE

The College of Alfarata

"Juniata is a College of ideals, of hope, of faith. It is not as Emerson once characterized education, 'a gesture of despair'. We believe in the essential good of youth and in the abiding good of Christian culture. To the attainment of of these ends I solicit most earnestly the sympathy, the counsel, the help of all good people and I invoke the guidance and blessing of Almighty God. With these strong-sided champions to help, Juniata will carry on."

This quotation from the Inaugural Address of President M. G. Brumbaugh expresses the ideals of the Institution.

The famous "Blue Juniata" of historic Indian fame flows near the College paralleled by the Broadway of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the William Penn Highway.

The College offers degree courses in Arts, Science, Commerce and Finance. Home Economics, Music, and Education. The study of the Bible is an integral part of all courses.

Juniata solicits the patronage of Christian parents and earnest students.

Students of Juniata College, Greetings,

I am very thankful for this unlooked-for opportunity of expressing the cordial feeling of Wheaton College for Juniata College and all connected with it. We are striving together for the great cause of a distinctly Christian type of education.

Perhaps the best use I can make of the space which I have so kindly been asked to use will be to give by the following original illustration the best reason I know, why a young man or a young woman should accept Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour and Lord:

There lived in one of our great cities a man of wealth, who had one only son. No other kinsfolk or loved ones did he have toward whom he might show his affection. This father had an abundance of wealth, both spiritual and material. He had taught his son to pray and to work; had trained him, instructed him, watched over him with the best of fatherly care. The young man was a fine clean-living, red-blooded, Christian lad.

The father desired to have other children in his home, toward whom he might show his affection. After much prayer and meditation, he formed a plan. "I will send my boy," he said, "to live in a very poor orphans' home. And every boy in the home who really loves my boy and is loyal to him, I will adopt into my home and make him my son." The father carried his plan into execution; and sent this fine, clean-living, red-blooded boy to live in an orphans' home in the slums of the great city.

There were some little urchins in the home, who did not respond to this only son; his purity and cleanliness, his forcefulness in the right, was a rebuke to them, and they hated him. But there were others of the little chaps who loved this splendid, Christian young man. They were not equal to him because of lack of training and because of inferior heredity, but they loved him, and they learned to love the things which he loved and to despise the things which he despised.

The father perfected his plan and took the entire crowd of boys who loved his boy, every one of them, into his own home to become his own sons. He gave them every advantage which his only son had had, and they in turn, because they loved his son, were impelled by loyalty of personal affection to loyalty to the ideals and standards of the new home.

This story seems to me to illustrate as well as any I have ever heard, God's plan for the salvation of the human race. "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. For God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world but that the world through Him might be saved. He that believeth on Him is not condemned but he that believeth not is condemned already because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil. For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light lest his deeds should be reproved, but he that doeth truth cometh to the light that his deeds may be made manifest that they are wrought in God."

Is not God's plan for us the most reasonable one which the human heart could possibly imagine? How could it be otherwise? If we love God's Son He will make us His own sons and we shall be at home in God's household; if we hate God's Son and turn away from Him, how could God possibly receive us as sons?

When God Almighty sent His Son from Heaven to die for us, He did all that we can conceive of Omnipotent Deity doing. When God in the person of His Son,—God incarnate in the flesh,—died for men, He accomplished all that could be accomplished by the free offer of grace. If we love God's Son we are saved. If we hate God's Son there is no other way of life.

Two hours! To the average person two hours has no particular significance and yet there is a college, nestling among the hills of central Pennsylvania, where the term two hours has a world of meaning. For two hours represents the interval from three to five on Sunday afternoon when from the interior of Founder's and Brumbaugh Halls come, with discouraging multiplicity, couples—men and women—dress in their best "Sunday-go-to-meeting" clothes and prepared for—a stroll along the streets of the fair and gentle village of Huntingdon or mayhap a climb to the glor-

In Trust For Humanity

"They only are loyal to this college who, departing, bear their added riches in trust for humanity."

This ideal chiseled on the gateway which leads from the campus of a certain American college out into the world of service, is likewise inscribed in the hearts of the great majority of the students of Brethren colleges.

But how can this trust be fulfilled in the highest way?

Certainly no field of service offers greater possibilities than that of religious leadership.

Bethany Seminary has been established and is being maintained by the Church of the Brethren to prepare her college graduates for the most efficient service in the ministry, the mission field, religious education and other phases of Christian work.

Courses are offered leading to the degrees Bachelor of Divinity and Master of Religious Education.

tainment. The way of a man with a maid is truly wonderful. Love beareth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. To come back to the present he most likely, flagrantly breaking the rules of Emily Post, is carrying her dainty hand and wrist between his brachio-radialis and biceps armi. This happy two, adoring each other and knowing it, behave in a manner approaching that which newlyweds always exhibit to the laughing old world. He speaks in low tones about Her friends, Her appearance in the Masquers play last week, Her health, etc., while She, no less solici-tious about her cave-man's delicate physical condition asks in a Juliet-like voice, "How did you sleep last night, dear?" "I dreamed of you, love," replies he who as fullback during the football season knocked an opponent out with the ferocity of his tackling. So love's young dream is built with happy phrases, poetry and blissful moments when the world seems nothing, for Love is all. This blissful two end the afternoon with a dinner at the Penn Koffee Shop or at the Leister House.

O! Now did I forget something? O! Yes, the freshmen! Well, they are not worthy of mention here for their behavior resembles that of the average high school youth and maid so much that it would be foolish to use up valuable words with their obviously illogical and puppy-love actions.

Two hours! What a world of meaning there is in that term. Between three and five love's small seed is sown, during the first semester's experience at Juniata, grows during the second semester, is developed during the Sophomore year, bursts into flower during the Junior year, is aflame with beauty during the Senior year and is cut after graduation and either withers or is transplanted into new soil where a maturer beauty takes its stead. Worthy the one who first had the idea of permitting the young lady and gentleman to be for two hours in each other's society on Sunday afternoon. For has not there been laid in that time the foundations for Juniata's record as a match factory? Who is there attending dear old J. C. or who has gone out in the long ago, who has not taken a course in "campusology", that course which costs so much, for which there is no textbook, and despite its being the greatest college sport no letter is granted for it, and whose popular periods are from three to five—Two Hours!
